Give Us Bullets —Laos

From AP, UPI

VIENTIANE — Laos' Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma is seeking aid from the Soviet Union as well as the big three Western powers to meet the military challenge of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Souvanna wants ammunition from the Russians for the guns they supplied his neutralist troops in 1961. He and his army were allies then of the Pathet Lao in a war against the conservative, U.S.-backed government of Prince Boun Oum.

DEVELOPMENTS

Other developments in the Southeast Asian situation which is causing concern in world capitals:

Washington has summoned high U.S. officials from all parts of the globe to Honolulu next week for an urgent strategy conference. The two-day meeting is being held in Hawaii to facilitate the attendance of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other diplomats in the trouble area.

Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson conferred in Washington for about 30 minutes yesterday on the situation in Southeast Asia.

CHARGE REJECTED

In London Britain sharply rejected a Soviet charge that U.S. flights over Laos violated Laos neutrality. The British foreign office has dismissed the Russian charge that the U.S. was openly violating the 1962 Geneva Agreement as "pure propaganda."

The Soviet wants a full-scale conference of the 14 nations that settled the last Laotian fighting in 1962. This would enable them to bring up Vietnam and other Southeast Asian trouble spots.

Out of Coma

Singer Judy Garland, 41, shown as she looked when she left Australia last week, emerged from a coma in Hong Kong Thursday. Hospital sources said she no longer needed oxygen. Nature of illness remains mystery. One nurse said Miss Garland had had a heart attack but another nurse described her illness as "poisoning."—(AP Photos)

Problem's a Lulu

Looe Won't Lose on Ladies' Loos

In Britain, rest rooms are called loos. The city fathers of Looe, a vacation centre in Cornwall, decided to replace the steel turnstiles in their ladies' loos with coin doors after Labor MP Barbara Castle campaigned in Parliament against the turnstiles.

Mrs. Castle claimed they were undignified and that many women, particularly pregnant ones, had difficulty getting through them.

After dismantling the turnstiles on Looe's loos, the city fathers discovered they could not get enough coin locks due to a national shortage.

The town council voted Wednesday night to transfer the coin-operated locks from the men's loos to the ladies'. The council was told that the traffic at the ladies' greatly exceeded that at the men's.

The council decided to institute an honor system for the men. They will install boxes and rely on the men to deposit their entrance pennies.

One councilman suggested that might be interpreted as a lack of confidence in the honesty of women. Mrs. Anne Lean, vice-chairman of the council, brushed aside the objection and voted for the switch.

Said her husband, Jack Lean:

"She was quite right. Last year Looe received £2,000 from its public conveniences—and most of it came from the ladies' loos. We can't afford to lose that in Looe."

Congolese On March

ELIZABETHTOWN (UPI)—Communist-backed Congolese rebels who captured the key lake and rail terminals of Albertville without firing a shot were reported marching toward the Katanga towns of Bandunduville and Manono Thursday.

Unconfirmed reports said elements of two Congolese national army companies stationed at Albertville on Lake Tanganyika had switched and joined the rebel forces.

Nehru Funeral

Grits Hit Over Absence

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition accused the government Thursday of "complete negligence" and "an inexcusable amount of incompetence" because Canada was not represented by a cabinet minister at the funeral of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

External Affairs Minister Martin denied the Commons charges by the opposition leader and said everything possible had been done to get Defence Minister Hellyer to Washington Wednesday in time to get a ride to New Delhi with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Mr. Martin said the only plane which could have got Mr. Hellyer to Washington in time—the transport department's Jetstar—was in New York.

He said the Jetstar had left Ottawa—it carried Trade Minister Sharp to New York for private talks with investment dealers—before news of Mr. Nehru's death had been received.

Outside the Commons, a transport department official said the Jetstar left Ottawa at 9:40 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

India Starts Search

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The search for a successor to the late prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru opens today when his Congress party's working committee meets to indicate its preference. (See also Page 11.)

Lal Bahadur Shastri, 59, Nehru's unofficial deputy, faced a strong challenge from former finance minister Morarji Desai, 68.

Shellford Plan

Equalize Oil Price Or Be Nationalized

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Social Credit member of the legislature said Thursday he would recommend nationalization of the oil industry if it will not equalize gasoline prices throughout B.C.

Imperial Oil Ltd. spokesmen disclosed both equalization and nationalization as suggested by Cyril Shellford in exchanges before the royal commission on gasoline prices. (See also Page 7.)

ONE STAGE

Time Takes Toll

CALLANDER, Ont. (CP)—Time has taken its toll in material ways, but the memory of a spectacular quintuplet birth 30 years ago is still fresh in the minds of people in this northern Ontario community.

Thursday was the 30th anniversary of the birth of the famous Dionne quintuplets.

The old farmhouse where the five girls were born is gone. It has been removed from the site and placed at a commercial entertainment centre now filling a role as a tourist attraction. In its place is a modern ranch-style bungalow.

The log nursery still stands on the property surrounded by high grass.

The family mansion has been converted into a nursing home. A lofty building nearby—partly renovated for use as a restaurant—still wears in faded lettering the word "Information." In the the quint's parents, live a short distance from the huge Dionne homestead.

Thursday, on their 30th birthday, three of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets celebrated the occasion quietly at the home of Germaine Allard, Annette's husband, in St. Bruno, Que. The Allards have three sons.

Marie, who is Mrs. Florian Houle, attended from Montreal with her two daughters and Cecile, Mrs. Philippe Langlois, of Quebec City, also attended, without her three children.

Yvonne, now at a convent in Moncton, N.B., was not able to attend.

TWO FLAGS SIGNAL TROUBLE

Hanging Delayed

Hanging of Santa Claus bandit George Marcotte, scheduled to go to gallows early today in Montreal for slaying of policeman during holdup, has been postponed to July 3 on superior court order after Ottawa refused to commute sentence.

'Flag-Fever' Called Roman Circus

PRESTON, Ont. (UPI)—Rabbi Abraham Feinberg Thursday called the controversy over the Canadian flag "a frightening symptom of Canadian irrationalism."

Mr. Feinberg told a dinner meeting of the Preston-Hespeler Kiwanis Club that the flag issue is "hugely amusing to Canada's neighbors." He compared the "flag-fever" to the "circus of ancient Rome . . . a political device to mute more serious problems."

"I have lived in Canada almost 21 years and I love this country. For the first time, however, I hesitate to boast about the maturity of the Canadian people," he said.

CYNICISM, INDIGNITY
Mr. Feinberg, rabbi-emeritus of the Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto and vice-chairman of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said "the passions being bred by the Ensign-Maple Leaf debate foster cynicism and indignity."

"If they grow unabated the sovereignty of Canada will fade into a hollow word and the three maple leaves will fly over a sphere of influence divided, like ancient Gaul, into three parts, dominated respectively by United States gold, British sentiment and French-speaking religion."

FORGET FLAGS, SURVIVE
Mr. Feinberg called the flag issue "outworn and retrogressive; it inflates patriotic honor into chauvinistic hysteria at a time when mankind must forget flags to survive, instead of forging them into weapons for self-glorification."

"Canada's basic alternative is not ensign or leaf—but one nation or none. In the heat of the controversy about the forms of nationhood, Canada may lose the substance," he said. "Whatever the flag finally adopted, it will be a shame unless Canadians choose it with reason, tolerance and a sense of humor which refuses to inflate a piece of cloth into a battle-cry."

Balloting Heavy
In IWA Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—A heavy ballot was indicated Thursday as the province's 26,000 coastal woodworkers voted on whether to accept a 28-cent-an-hour increase over two years as recommended by government conciliation officer E. P. Fisher.

Voting at the 6,000-member Vancouver local closes Monday. Most of the other seven provincial locals will not complete voting for another week. Count is June 8.

Gasoline Price Probe

mission, said it has 600 outlets in B.C. averaging 100,000 gallons each year. The average company-owned outlet in Vancouver averaged 220,000 gallons and had an annual profit of $7,400 for its dealer.

Mr. Shafford had asked Imperial to comment on these proposals to equalize prices throughout B.C. One price throughout the province at the wholesale level; one price with only freight costs added; or one price for the same gallonage.

D. H. MacAllan of Imperial said these could not be achieved without either collusion between oil companies or regulations that specifically demanded it.

He said a uniform price throughout the province would mean sales would be less profitable in areas with higher transportation and distribution costs. Incentives to serve outlying areas would "diminish very rapidly."

"It would not make sense in the eyes of the supplier to make investments or serve an area of higher costs such as northern B.C. when he could concentrate his efforts in areas closer to supply sources."

Mr. Shafford said a chain store sent catalogues across northern B.C. Mr. MacAllan said the products sold in the catalogues have lower transportation costs than gas line.

Imperial spokesman said the uniform price with a corrected transportation differential would give a local refiner a monopoly in his area. Uniform prices for the same gallonage would result in higher prices because there would be little or no incentive to reduce them to any particular amount.

Imperial's R. S. Ritchie said prices should be determined in the market place.

Mr. Shafford said if his recommendations are not practical "then I would recommend nationalization."

Mr. Ritchie said any of the systems Mr. Shafford suggested would give the B.C. interior "a lot less adequate service than they now get and would ultimately give it a higher cost."

"Certainly it would give a higher cost on the average for B.C. as a whole because you would have eliminated the competition that competition would be making to lower prices."

The interior was not an easy place to serve.

"But there is presently not a consumer in B.C. who can't get service and supplies of petroleum products readily available to him."

home-cooked meal, a birthday cake and an exchange of gifts.

A story which has often been told about how news of their birth reached the world concerns a telephone call to the late E. H. Bayan, editor of the North Bay Nugget.

"How much would it cost," the caller asked, "to insert a birth notice for five children?"

Mr. Bayan asked a couple of questions and learned that the caller's daughter, a 24-year-old mother of five, had just given birth to quintuplet daughters.

He sent a reporter to the scene — William Dumsday, now chief of public relations for the combined armed forces in the department of national defence.

Mr. Dumsday and the late Dick Ralston, a studio photographer, found Mrs. Dianne in bed with five baby daughters near her. Mr. Ralston was the only photographer to take a picture of Mrs. Dianne and her babies in their bed — a picture that was believed to have been published in almost every newspaper in the world.

City Car Business Face-Lifted

The face of Victoria's automobile industry is changing rapidly, with various franchises shifts, and main downtown firms looking forward to expanded business.

National Motors Limited, 819 Yates, is taking over the Valiant, Dodge and Chrysler franchise, due to the liquidation of Pacific Chrysler Dodge Limited.

David Motors Limited, in turn is taking over the Studebaker and Mercedes franchise and continuing its Volvo and Peugeot lines.

NEW PROGRAM

Many of the Pacific Chrysler Dodge employees are being absorbed by both companies in their new, expanding programs.

National Motors Limited is headed by Robert P. Carver, while his brother, David, runs David Motors Limited at 1101 Yates.

EXTRA STAFF

"We already have the biggest facilities on Vancouver Island," said Robert Carver at National Motors. "But we are also taking on extra staff—including some of the Pacific Chrysler employees—which will increase our payroll by almost $100,000 a year from June 1."

Meanwhile, at David Motors Limited, handlers of the Volvo and Peugeot lines for the past 2½ years, contractors are working on a big expansion program right now to take in the Studebaker and Mercedes facilities, for the approximately 5,000 owners on Vancouver Island.

SMOOTH TRANSITION

"We are doing everything we can to bring about a nice, smooth transition," said David Carver.

"Although we operate independently financially, we do work on a general master plan as far as the industry is concerned," he added. Both with long-standing experience in the car industry, the brothers originally came from Montreal.

Other major city car dealers report that business is good.

BUSINESS GOOD

An official at Ensign Motors, which has the Chrysler, Plymouth, Valiant line, although denying reports that the business was moving to the former Pacific Chrysler headquarters at 1801 Yates, said business was good.

"We are not moving as of yet," he said. "We may move, we may not. As soon as any decisions are made, we will make announcements."

Soviet Arms Sought

Cambodia, from the United Nations, has announced that it would accept UN controllers along its 600-mile border with Viet Nam but it still wants a new Geneva conference to safeguard Cambodian neutrality.

Laotian nationalists under Souvanna Phouma have blamed attacks on the Plain of Jars campaign on lack of ammunition.

Soviet policy lately, however, has been to withhold material aid from all Laotian factions while propagandizing Pathet Lao views of the crisis.

PEKING FEUD

Diplomatic sources said the Kremlin, heavily involved in a feud with Peking, does not want to give Communist China a chance to accuse it of abandoning "a revolutionary movement."

Radio Peking said the Pathet Lao had urged the Soviet Union to reject the appeal for arms aid, saying "Prince Souvanna Phouma had no right to seek foreign aid and other war material.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will serve as chairman of the Honolulu conference. Rusk will fly to Honolulu from India, where he went earlier this week to attend funeral services for Prime Minister Nehru. En route to Hawaii, Rusk plans to stop at Bangkok, Thailand, for talks with leaders of that country.

From Washington will go Defence Secretary McNamara, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and other high diplomatic and military officials.

The White House said President Johnson instructed the conference to "review the situation in the entire area" of Southeast Asia.

That includes South Viet Nam, where members of a U.S. military aid mission are involved in a bloody, protracted and thus far indecisive struggle between government forces and Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Your Good Health

Infection from Staph Germ Starts When Body Can't Cope

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a staph infection or disease, and what causes it after one has had surgery. And why do you have to be isolated?

—MRS. I.A.

This is not a "new" problem but it is still a misunderstood one. "Staph" is an infection caused by a form of bacteria known as staphylococcus.

There are different varieties and sub-varieties of this germ, some existing naturally, some modified by drugs which, ironically, have been used to fight the germ.

The staph germ is exceedingly common. It inhabits the skin and especially the inner surfaces of the nose.

MOST REPEL GERMS

In good health, most of us manage to combat the germ quite successfully, and don't even know it is present. But if the germ gets a special foothold somewhere, and starts to multiply, we have an infection.

Skin or surface troubles, particularly boils, are an example of this. Eyes, nose or other areas may be affected. If the infection becomes powerful enough, and our system is unable to cope with it, then it can develop into what we call "blood poisoning."

Usually the patient wins and the germ loses, but at times it is a rough battle. In especially stubborn cases, laboratory cultures of the germ may be required in order to find out what medication will be most effective against that particular variety.

EXPOSURE ANYWHERE

Exposure to the staph germ can come from anywhere. You may even fall victim to germs which you yourself have been carrying around. There isn't anything special about operations in connection with this. In the operating room, everything can be kept sterile, but afterward you may get the germ from a sneeze or the touch of a finger.

Isolation is not always required but it is wise, both to protect the patient from any further risks as well as to try to keep his germs from being passed along to others.

Dear Dr. Molner, I am a 17-year-old boy troubled with a lot of gas. Could this be caused by my diet or just nervousness? I go to school without breakfast because I think this common it.

—R. T. B.

Nerves may be a big part in it, or unconscious air-swallowing which can be a nervous habit. Or you may be sensitive to certain foods. But of all the things that I DON'T think cause it, breakfast is at the top of the list. By all means don't skip breakfast. In fact, skipping breakfast and then making up for it at other meals could very well be one of the causes of your trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could Bell's Palsy affect the brain so as to make you forgetful? I am 64.

—MRS. W. V.

No. Bell's Palsy is an affliction of the nerves of the face, a neuralgia, and has no relation to the brain.

Immigration

Six of 16 Persons In Jail 30 Days

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Tremblay told the Commons Thursday night there are 16 persons in Canada awaiting deportation and that six of them have been in custody more than 30 days.

In answer to questioning by David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North), he said the six were either awaiting appeal proceedings of their deportations or arrangements being made with the countries to which they are being deported.

'GREATEST RESPECT'

To charges of denial of rights and ruthless treatment of aliens, Mr. Tremblay replied his department shows the "greatest respect for those who come here illegally and who must be deported."

Mr. Orlikow had said there was different treatment for rich and poor and for whites and Negroes.

DEPORTATION

The question arose in connection with the deportation earlier this week of Eric Claude Hooper, a 27-year-old United States Negro who spent 100 days in Don Jail at Toronto prior to being deported.

Justice Minister Favreau told the Commons earlier that steps have been taken to prevent any recurrence of such incidents. He and the immigration minister stressed, however, that there were exceptional circumstances in Hooper's case.

Three Die in Crash Of Excursion Train

CHEADLE HULME, England (Reuters) — Three persons were reported killed and 11 injured when an excursion train carrying 235 children, teachers and parents crashed here Thursday.

Known dead were a railway representative, a seven-year-old girl and a boy of about 10.

By Rail or Air

This "milestone" in transport comes from Lockheed plant in Marietta, Ga. It is van made to be transported by rail, as truck trailer, and by air—in new fanjet C-141 StarLifter, with its cargo section 70 feet long. Van is eight feet by eight feet by 10 feet long.

Not Ready For Queen?

LONDON (CP)—An argument blew up Thursday over whether West Germany is "contented" enough for the Queen to pay a state visit.

"The British public are not yet prepared to accept Germany as a normal, contented and stable neighbor," says Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

"Germany seems astonishingly stable, reliable and contented; long may she remain so," says The Daily Telegraph.

Injured Parolee Needn't Go Back

BOSTON (AP)—Joseph Flaherty, 41, was saved by a 2-2 tied vote of the parole board Thursday from being returned to the Walpole state prison to finish serving a sentence of 36 to 46 years.

The four members of the board said a final determination will be made later, presumably when the board chairman, Cornelius J. Twomey, returns from a vacation.

LEGS BROKEN

The case came up before the board after Flaherty, released April 13 after serving 13 years, was injured in a car accident Thursday of last week. Both his legs were broken and he suffered other injuries.

The four members of the board meeting Thursday declined to reveal details, but said the discussion covered possible parole violations.

Flaherty was injured as he left a restaurant in the early morning hours.

PAROLE RULES

Parole rules customarily forbid parolees to frequent bars or consort with ex-convicts.

When he was injured, Flaherty was with his wife, the former Frances McKearney of Peace River, Alta., whom he married shortly after his release, and another couple, not publicly identified.

Biggest Spacecraft in Orbit

Moon Test Near-Perfect

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—America used its mighty 19-storey Saturn-1 rocket Thursday to orbit the world's heaviest known spacecraft—an 8½-ton test model of the Apollo spaceship scheduled to carry astronauts to the moon by 1969.

The super booster, which generates 1,500,000 pounds of thrust, set the spaceship on a path that will take it around the earth every 88 minutes. Moonship is heavier by a ton than the largest of Russia's Vostok-class spacehips.

GOOD OPENING

The shot was a near-perfect opener of spaceflight tests for the lunar landing venture.

"We're tickled to death," said Rep. George Miller, chairman of the Committee on Space and Astronautics.

Scientists predicted the Apollo craft would circle the globe from 124 to 140 miles high for more than two days before burning up in a fiery plunge to earth.

Three of the 29 astronauts, from which the first U.S. lunar explorers will be selected, watched the 190-foot Saturn-1 thunder into the pale blue sky ahead of a brilliant trail of reddish-orange flame.

The eight engines crammed in the massive first stage gulped kerosene and liquid oxygen for almost 2½ minutes before the six revolutionary hydrogen fuel engines in the second stage took over.

BLASTED AWAY

A fraction of a minute later, the 31-foot launch escape tower that sat on the nose of the three-section space ship was blasted away from the speeding booster by a one-second solid rocket burst.

Greek Cypriots Parade

'Kick Out the British'

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

NICOSIA — All work stopped here today as, along with thousands of Cypriots, I watched a Greek Cypriot parade demonstration demanding the withdrawal of British forces from the island.

Demonstrators, following up the arrest of a British airman and his wife for allegedly selling arms to the Turkish Cypriot fighters, carried placards saying, "Kick Out British From Peace Forces," and "British Imperialists Are Our Enemies."

TEACHERS, LAWYERS

A spectator told me the marchers represented 25 organizations, including shopkeepers, doctors, teachers and lawyers.

"We found the British are enemies and demand that they leave," he said.

Meanwhile, RAF and British press cars are being searched at roadblocks by the Greek Cypriot police because the arrested airman's car carried press stickers.

LAST NIGHT

Last night the Cypriot police released a British army sergeant and his driver after holding them in custody 9½ hours, according to a British military spokesman.

They were arrested early yesterday at Ypsonas near Limassol, when the sergeant refused to allow inspection of official documents he was carrying.

The spokesman said he was taken to a police station but did not hand over the documents.

Also released was the wife of the British airman.

banners saying: "British Get Out Of The United Nations" and "Death To Carver."

British Major Gen. Mike Carver is deputy commander of the UN Peace Force.

The commander, Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani of India, has said the island is still faced with tragedy, death and suffering because of "irresponsible, senseless conduct by armed men on both sides."

Meanwhile, Greek Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios issued a statement condemning the abduction of Turkish Cypriot hostages by "irresponsible Greek Cypriot elements."

He said the hostages were "probably murdered."

The statement was issued after the UN announced that 27 Turkish Cypriots reported missing and believed held by Greek Cypriots had been found safe and unharmed by the International Red Cross. But a UN spokesman said there was still no information on 74 Turkish Cypriots who disappeared since the UN takeover.

A Lingering Score

MR. PEARSON has disclosed the new flag he intends to force on the country, and even among supporters of a new national banner the design is unlikely to win much applause. It is a sharp illustration of what happens when a traditional and historic emblem is arbitrarily set aside and something is coined overnight out of nothing to take its place.

The sad thing about this whole subject is that the prime minister should not have allowed the public the chance to make known its choice by a plebiscite or alternately that he should not have permitted a "free" vote in the Commons which would not have involved the fall of the government and thus an election which MPs shy away from to prevent the risk of losing their parliamentary emoluments.

This would have paved the way for gradual acceptance of a new flag, such being the outcome, in spite of wholesale objections across the country to loss of the Red Ensign. It would have allowed the democratic process of majority vote to rule, and be the only method calculated to settle the issue in a manner leading to national unity. As it is, or seems likely to be when the House casts its verdict, a lingering score will be left to poison the national atmosphere and create the very disunity Mr. Pearson's current policies claim to avoid.

Parliament has yet to express itself on the flag resolution but even among the doubts expressed by MPs of all groups about the new design, and preference by many for a national plebiscite, the trend indicates that the government's measure will pass.

Mr. Diefenbaker has bluntly explained why, when he says that MPs had been "bought" by the large increase in parliamentary salaries effected by the Pearson regime shortly after it took office. The various party manoeuvres during the past year on numerous votes of non-confidence, each time ensuring that while voting dissent from government action the opposition as a whole never voted together, bear Mr. Diefenbaker out.

Unless at the last minute MPs vote on the new flag as conscience and personal choice dictate it will never be known whether their decision is based on conviction or political expediency. And this will ascerbate the division of public opinion that exists on the subject of a national flag.

Softening the Impact

ONE THING BECOMES evident in Mr. Pearson's move to banish the Red Ensign from the Canadian scene, and that is the retention of the Union Jack as a Commonwealth symbol. His flag resolution before Parliament provides that, captioned as the "Royal Union Flag," the Jack may continue to be flown.

This is not unexpected, it would have been the last straw otherwise and many people and organizations will continue to fly the Union Jack no matter the adoption of a maple leaf flag, and at least it suggests some remaining sentiment among the government for the British connection and appreciation of the reality of Commonwealth membership. Some visible sign of association is necessary, and this prized flag cannot be idly tossed aside.

Nor presuming the adoption of the proposed new national flag need there be any confusion, although it will be interesting to note in future how effectively government agencies themselves fly the Jack. There is occasion for the dual display. Even at present the Union Jack flies in company with the Red Ensign as a reminder of the dominant Canadian heritage.

Similarly another notice of motion presented to Parliament provides that an equal duality will attach to the anthems associated with Canada. The "national" anthem would be "O Canada," now generally accepted and sung with propriety, and the "royal" anthem would be "God Save the Queen." The latter is frequently played inauspiciously and its preservation for appropriate occasions should enhance its significance and the monarchical system of governance to which this nation belongs.

If the Red Ensign goes these two measures should serve to soften the impact of its elimination, but they will not erase the general distaste aroused by Mr. Pearson's handling of so grave and important a matter as the symbols of national character and identity.

The Bus Study

THERE WAS SOME variance—perhaps of nicety—in the accounts given by Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria and Mayor William Rathie of Vancouver, of an agreement reached at a closed meeting of Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria municipal representatives early this week.

The former said he had agreed, subject to the endorsement of his council, to a study of the financial consequences of municipal operation of the B.C. Hydro transit systems. The latter said that the delegates of the nine councils participating in the discussions had decided to stand together to block any attempt by the provincial government to turn the buses over to them.

Mayor Rathie's statement could be a personal interpretation of the attitudes displayed at the meeting, and Mayor Wilson's an assessment of the actual results. But no matter: the purpose of a study of the economics of the systems in the two metropolitan areas seems unmistakable and worthwhile. It is to prepare the ammunition for a fight for a fair deal for the local taxpayers and bus-users should this be necessary if and when the government finally seeks to divorce the transit operations from B.C. Hydro which is primarily concerned with power.

Open to question is whether this should be a battle against being given the responsibility of running the buses under any circumstances, as suggested by Mayor Rathie's words, or merely against taking over the systems at an increased cost, in one way or another, to the residents of the municipalities.

What is important is that when the time comes, the facts of the matter should be clear and precise in the public mind.

It might be that an equitable and satisfactory solution could be found in direct provincial subsidization of the money-losing bus operations, or in a decrease in the metropolitan power rates that now help offset the losses. It might even be, though this seems unlikely, that Premier Bennett would consider letting the municipalities take over local power distribution at a profit to compensate for the transportation deficits. But in any case the civic authorities should be completely ready at any time with their facts and figures, and a study to this end is well undertaken.

"Blast it, old boy, I'm headed for an election too!"

NEWS of Prime Minister Nehru's death came to me, strangely perhaps, while I was in the midst of reading a book centred in his storied land.

And as such conjunction does it deepened my thoughts as I reflected on this great Indian leader. The book is a soldier's tale, John Masters' "Bugle and a Tiger," by a novelist now an American citizen who was a brigadier with Wingate's Chindits while in the Indian Army and who writes of his experiences of Indian life as an officer of a Gurkha regiment.

The Gurkhas are from Nepal, but they are part of British and Indian military lore, and certainly have regiments in both armies.

There is a dedication which reflects the spirit of the book's author and his feeling for the men he commanded:

"... my thoughts return to you who were my comrades, the stubborn and indomitable peasants of Nepal. Once more I hear the laughter with which you greeted every hardship. ... Uncomplainingly you endured hunger and thirst and wounds; and at the last your unwavering lines disappeared into the smoke and wrath of battle."

"Bravest of the brave, most generous of the generous. ..."

Finely said, and in his own realm of endeavor Mr. Nehru will receive accolades of equivalent virtue.

As I write this Mr. Pearson's design for a new flag, seemingly certain of adoption by a pressed Parliament, has been unveiled. I am looking at it as I type these words.

And with disappointment. Leaving aside the Red Ensign altogether, as though it had never been and we were starting from scratch, the design to me does not suit the grandeur that a national flag should have. It looks to have been fashioned artificially.

One maple leaf centred in bold relief, with or without the blue end bars, would have had the kind of dignity I associate with national emblems. The blue bars are said by an Ottawa heraldic expert to add glamour to the design, but perhaps my aesthetic sense is dormant.

I had hoped that the previously published guesses on the chosen design would be mistaken as to the stylized pattern of the leaves themselves, but unfortunately they were correct.

A maple leaf is a splendid symbol of Canada if we have to have a new flag, but nature's shaping of the leaf would, in my way of thinking, have been much more preferable.

But then of course I wasn't consulted.

Flags fly in the breeze and restaurants are bidding to do likewise, albeit they will revolve and not fly.

The Seattle fair of two years ago has started a-melting. Its lofty needle of epicurean appeal is being copied.

In Denver, Colorado, a new tower structure is to be fashioned, the tallest man-made edifice in the world reaching 1,253 feet high. Capped by a place to eat. In London the post office is erecting a similar restaurant of the air, and word comes to my desk from Niagara Falls on the same theme.

There is an added tourist attraction there is to be built a 360-foot high observation tower, including a dining room that goes round and round and round.

Each of these will enable patrons to see far and beyond, possibly to offset any upset to their gastronomic equilibria.

Mr. Pearson's Action

Creating More Disunity

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

FOR many years attempts have been made to get the Union Jack off the Canadian flag. This has been the one real flag issue before the country and it is so today.

Such attempts were resisted by Mr. King and Mr. St. Laurent but their successors, Mr. Pearson, is now leading the attack on the pretext of uniting the country.

And he and his newspaper apologists even have the nerve to say that anyone who does not support his discarding of the Red Ensign is guilty of creating disunity!

This attitude smacks of the arrogance of the former Liberal government of which Mr. Pearson was a prominent member. They actually believed that they alone were qualified to govern the country. They never did understand how the Canadian people could be so ungrateful as to throw them out!

This same attitude appeared again in the first motion of non-confidence moved by Mr. Pearson after becoming leader of the Opposition. It will be remembered that this motion called on the Conservative government of the day to resign, move across the floor of the House, and let Mr. Pearson be prime minister.

Now after a year of unbelievably weak government he has precipitated a dispute over the flag which will create more bad feeling and disunity in the country than there has been for many a long day.

It is significant that Mr. Pearson has brushed aside the views of the Royal Canadian Legion and the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada.

These organizations have always been non-political and thoroughly Canadian in the finest sense. Any submissions they have made to whatever government happened to be in power have been straightforward and statesmanlike. No organizations across our land have given finer leadership. They cannot fairly be accused of creating disunity—on the contrary they have been a great unifying force.

In addition he has tried to implicate the so-called ethnic groups of Canada claiming that they have been demanding the removal of the Union Jack. This is a slander on them—used to bolster his own divisive actions. The finest speeches in favor of the Red Ensign heard in the Commons in recent years have been made by a member born in the Ukraine—Nick Mandziuk of Manitoba.

Mr. Pearson tries to camouflage his real objective by saying that the Red Ensign cannot be distinguished from some other flag—presumably the Union Jack. What a fatuous argument that is!

The Ensign has been used from the start at the United Nations, in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and at dozens of conferences of various kinds. It is down and admired in the countries with which Canada has diplomatic relations—now numbering about 85—and has been shown in every part of the world by the Transport Command of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

On the other hand it will be a long time before the Pearson flag can be distinguished in foreign countries from two score other new flags mainly of countries in Africa or Asia.

In addition the Red Ensign has great value in showing the countries of the world that Canada is one of the leaders of the Commonwealth. Only four of the old members remain—Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand and it will be noted that the last two, like Canada, have always had the Union Jack on their flag. So has South Africa and it remains on that flag today—as well as on the flag of Hawaii.

Why the change? It doesn't require much insight to realize that Mr. Pearson is after additional seats in the House of Commons and thinks this is one way he can get them.

No doubt he tries to soothe those Canadians who want the Union Jack kept on the flag by the provision that the Jack itself can be considered the Commonwealth flag; others he will try to bluff into non-resistance by telling them they must not create disunity; and as for others he hopes to force his new flag down their throats so quickly that they can do nothing about it.

No matter what his scheme there can be no doubt that the Pearson way of handling the flag issue has caused bitterness that goes very deep; that it is bound to weaken the country; and that it will not satisfy those who have been and still are shouting for a nation made up of a partnership of states.

Essentially his flag policy is one of appeasement.

Certainly Mr. Pearson has no right to expect that his arrogant action will be applauded or accepted by millions of his fellow-Canadians!

René Levesque would be pleased to know that in Queen's Park eyes, the national capital apparently is already a French-Canadian city, perhaps even to be considered a Quebec beach-head on the Eastern Ontario shore.

Copies of Ontario's hand-somely printed official tourist brochure arriving through the mails are French.

Queen's Park must assume that with one-third of the national capital's metro area population of 450,000 French-speaking, the Quebec take-over is inevitable even if Mayor Charlotte Whitton still stoutly insists on flying the Red Ensign over City Hall and having the street signs in English only.

Closing note: The separatist element has become so bold in the capital that Canadian Red Ensigns are being defaced here on Parliament Hill—in the West Block, in fact, where some of the MPs have their offices.

Our Readers' Views

More on the Flag

I WOULD like to congratulate you on reproducing that wonderful illustration by Bernard Partridge that appeared in Punch during the war years; it seems to me to show so vividly the most important reason why we should still honor and retain the Red Ensign. I wish the illustration could be enlarged and copies posted on the billboards of our city.

I trust you will continue to put the small Red Ensign on the front page of your newspaper; I am cutting mine out and affixing them to the back of my mail, possibly others are doing the same. It would be convenient, however, if some printing firm could be induced to issue something like that with a gummed back and sell at a reasonable price in, say, packets of 50 or 100.

Some people seem to think this abolition of our flag and National Anthem is just a small matter, but I personally think it may well be the not so very thin edge of the wedge towards separating altogether from the British Commonwealth of Nations and forming a close alliance with the United States of America; I cannot forget the definite "assist" Mr. Pearson received from U.S. sources at the time of the last election. Having twice served under the Red Ensign and having lived under the Union Jack in some shape or form for all my 78 years I cannot help feeling very strongly about this.

The writer has taken advantage of your printed coupon to express his wish for proposed Canadian flag.

I have mailed the coupon after erasing the words "a national plebiscite to decide upon" thus approving our government's current action in choosing Canada's flag.

I have flown a proposed flag for Canada with one maple leaf on it from my cruiser for several years and the only disapproval I have had to date were from the unassimilated European immigrants from England.

E. B. HAWKINS,

Regarding the plebiscite for our national flag: Personally I am all for a national flag but a plebiscite? A plebiscite would cost nearly as much as an election and maybe much more commotion.

In days of yore from Ottawa Pearson the Politico came, And planted firm his "trial balloon"

Across our fair domain. Long may it wave our boast and pride, Let no one ever sever The thistle, lily, rose or maple leaf. They're all mixed up together, The maple leaf our emblem dear.

The maple leaf forever. God save the country and heaven bless The "postage" flag forever.

What a fuss about a flag. I wish someone would pay me $18,000 or more a year to waste my time on the above nonsense. In my opinion a group of women could have designed a flag and settled the issue in an afternoon. Let our representatives get on with more important things while in Ottawa.

READING in the Islander a letter from a Dorothy Lindell I am amazed that she can see no cruelty in leaving her "pet" in cold and loneliness and probably hunger for weeks at a time. Most of us feel uneasy if we have to leave our dogs alone for a day.

A few frozen bones are poor sustenance for any dog, but the rest is apparently "root hog or die." This appears to be one of those cases of unthinking cruelty which humane societies try to combat. All one can say is that such a story instead of arousing their indignation.

Life on the Prairies is hard for all animals in any case. I hope other letters of disapproval will bring it home to the dog's owners that the story of even temporary abandonment to the bitter cold of a Saskatchewan winter is nothing to be complacent about, and perhaps they will take another look at the situation.

May I make a suggestion that in order to discourage bank robbery and gunmen, banks should be kept open for business on Saturdays and closed on Mondays, and protected.

My suggestion is constructive in that it might save hold-ups, murders and mayhem and afford more reasonable protection to the public in general and allow them to sleep without locking their doors and windows for fear of intrusion.

Will you please put before the public, through your newspaper, at least an attempt at a constructive suggestion, so that we can at least call ourselves free from murders, robberies, holdups and general mayhem.

W. A. C. HOLLAND,

Considering all the various campaigns for safe driving, it seems remarkable that reporters, both newspaper and radio continue to weaken their reports by insisting that "the car went out of control." A car is not intelligent and is never in control. Why not be truthful, and say "the driver lost control of the car?" This, you will note, puts the onus where it belongs—on the non-intelligent driver.

At the same time there are a few points that one never sees mentioned, for instance, the "back seat driver," a common source of accidents, since even though she may be right she only confuses the driver. Then there is the driver who forgets, or doesn't know, that his reaction time begins after the fellow in front has his brakes on, thus inviting rear end collision, and the lazy driver who allows his car to slow on lesser upgrades instead of giving it more gas and so avoiding pile-ups. And finally why not lump "careless driving" and all such things under their true heading, "bad driving"? It might take some of the conceit out of the young know-it-alls.

FIFTY YEARS A DRIVER.

The Colonist contention that Britisher Blythe's experiment in political hypnosis is proof that human nature is the cause of some people voting "without reason" is without adequate foundation.

Missing from your editorial analysis are the people who do vote intelligently. Can this also be attributed to human nature alone? Hardly, since another basic ingredient is conspicuous by its absence from the experiment. And that is circumstances.

It is generally conceded that every normal person is interested in his own well being or happiness. Whether he acts intelligently in this regard or not depends upon his general awareness or knowledge of all the things he comes into contact with.

Humans do not exist in a vacuum any more than any other phenomena. Their behavior is determined by the interaction between themselves and their environment, not from their nature alone.

J. G. JENKINS,

I would like to draw attention to the school referendum passed on Saturday. In a free society, a democracy, where the right to vote in the chief freedom of the individual and the foundation of our government, 20 per cent of Victoria's voters were interested enough to vote. I find this completely disgusting. Today we hear so much about the teen-agers' total lack of interest in the world and its affairs; we are forced to listen to people telling us that our teenagers are merely victims of escaping real life problems, yet we hear no excuses for the 80 per cent of Victoria's eligible voters who couldn't be bothered to express their views on the education of our youth, by voting.

If these people are not interested (or intelligent) enough to vote let us limit the vote to those who are interested enough to vote. If this move was threatened I would be greatly interested to see the results of this referendum. I would be willing to bet that there would be a near perfect turnout "to defend our rights" but the next referendum would again show a 20-30 per cent vote.

The greatest danger to a democracy is not Communism, it is complacency.

Peking Fears Extension of Viet Nam War

By RICHARD HUGHES
From Hong Kong

China has built up an army of 100,000 men, including paratroops and commandos, at Nanning, a strategic centre in south China connected by rail with Hanoi, capital of Communist North Vietnam.

The air defences of Hanoi and the port of Haiphong have been strengthened by Chinese and there has also been a build-up of Chinese air strength—fighters and troop transports—at Nanning.

Peking anxiety over a possible northwards extension of the war from South Vietnam, with or without active United States participation, is real and growing.

It is an open secret that American protagonists for expanded operations advocated specific American reprisals for the sinking of the United States supply-carrier in Saigon River and for the North Vietnam bomb plot against the life of Defence Secretary Robert McNamara.

Proposed retaliation included a United States naval raid on communist shipping in Haiphong and an air attack on Hanoi airfields and industry.

It is conceded that the Viet Cong communists, who have boldly committed most of their reserves to intensified fighting in South Vietnam, still hold the initiative and that the "pacification program" of General Khanh's government, designed to rally rural resistance against the Viet Cong, is still lagging.

While reinforcing their own military strength in the south and arming North Vietnam troops who are fighting on the side of Paoth Lao, the Chinese have warned the Siamese against sending troops into Laos where the communist influence continues to spread inexorably westward.

It is with a close and warmly sympathetic interest that all men of good will, whatever their creed, are following the vigorous debate now going on within the Carthaginian Monolithic Church on the vexed question of rear-view mirrors.

It has long been the teaching of the church that looking backwards while travelling forwards is categorically and explicitly forbidden by God, since it was for doing this that he visited instant fossilization upon Lot's wife.

In this context "looking back" has always been interpreted as frustrating the natural forward gaze of the traveller, whether by turning the head (visus interruptus), or by the interposition of a mechanical device such as a mirror.

Carthaginian Monolithic theologians claim that looking back is not only divinely prohibited, but can also be seen by the light of reason to be contrary to natural law, since it is patently interfering with nature to inhibit the inherent tendency of fast-moving objects to collide, and is frustrating the natural consequences of the act of driving—the possibility that an heir may succeed to the driver's estate.

It must in all fairness be pointed out that the keen interest of the Monolithic clergy in preserving spontaneity and avoiding insipidity is entirely altruistic, since they do not themselves drive.

These arguments notwithstanding, the church has long recognized the need to prevent cars crashing into the back of one another indiscriminately, and Monolithics are permitted to avoid it by abstaining from driving altogether, or by driving only during the so-called "safe period," between midnight and 6 a.m., when the chances of being crashed into are greatly reduced.

The question was less crucial in the days when the main effect of the doctrine was to prohibit Monolithics from sitting with their back to the engine in railway carriages.

It is to this agonizing problem that "the box" may provide an answer. "The box" is a rearward radar scanning device which scientists are still testing.

"Liberal" Monolithics believe that a scanning aerial cannot be said to "look" back in the natural sense of looking, and that the radar screen does not deflect the natural forward gaze of the driver, like a mirror, but is a natural part of his natural forward view.

It is emphasized that even if "the box" were to be accepted, it could never be used for merely selfish purposes, to avoid a crash simply because a crash was not desired, but only where a driver had already had three or four crashes, and there were genuine grounds for believing that another one might have a serious effect on his health.

All the same, some authorities doubt if the box could ever be an acceptable compromise. They believe that the only hope would be to develop a device which would make the safe period principle more reliable—making absolutely sure that the road behind the car was kept clear by scattering perhaps nails or broken glass, perhaps small high explosive or napalm bombs.

Non-monolithic observers can only look on at this debate with sympathy and understanding. They may be sure that it will be carried through with utter sincerity and a genuine sense of urgency, and that everyone on both sides will do his best, and play the game according to the rules.

Extra smoothness because it's Extra Charcoal Filtered.

Charcoal Filtering is a slow, costly process but it produces a perfectly 'polished' whisky, smooth as velvet. This extra-smoothness in Brown Jug is the reason why so many people who know whisky prefer Brown Jug.

BACKGROUND

In schools and factories all over Romania — often have erupted into vocal anti-Soviet demonstrations.

At a gathering in the mining area of Petroani, workers were said to have chanted the slogans, "Long live Romania," and "We don't want the Russians."

Premier Khrushchev was reported to have been specifically criticised at some meetings for allegedly meddling in Romania's internal affairs.

Although the mass meetings obviously were inspired by the regime, Western experts felt that the more extreme anti-Soviet utterances probably resulted from genuine outbursts of Romanian nationalist sentiment.

The basic purpose of the meetings was to popularize the central committee report of April 26, in which Romania's leaders insisted on developing their economy without dictation from Comcon, the communist common market.

The report also emphasizes Bucharest's determination to stay clear of active embroilment in the Moscow-Peking rift.

Aside from Yugoslavia, no other communist country has ever gone so far in declaring itself independent of both Moscow and Peking.

In effect, it constitutes a Romanian declaration of the end of the satellite era.

Western experts say the rallies, aimed at building mass support for the party's stand, removes any lingering doubts that the regime means exactly what it says.

Algeria Calls 'Peace' Parley

The London Observer from Algiers

Algeria has called an international conference in Algiers from July 5 to 9 to press for the removal of nuclear arms and forces from Mediterranean bases.

The proposal, which is by the Algerian Peace Committee and is backed by the political bureau of the National Liberation Front (FLN), came after President Ben Bella had returned from his tour of the Soviet Union, eastern Europe and Egypt.

It also followed immediately on Nikita Khrushchev's Port Said speech condemning the presence of American nuclear submarines and aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean.

Editorials in the government-controlled Algiers press have specifically mentioned bases in Libya, Turkey, Malta, Italy, Cyprus and Spain, and the French nuclear test sites in the Sahara and the French air and naval base at Mers el Kebir, near Oran.

B.C. Bank 'Product of Banana Republic'

OTTAWA (CP)—The best that senators had to say Thursday about a bill for the establishment of a bank of British Columbia was that it stemmed from "baitive institutionalism" and a provincial inferiority complex.

At worst it was branded "tough," "high-handed," "unconstitutional," and something that might be expected from a banana republic.

Senator Jean-Francois Poirier (L.-Quebec) said the bank was merely an effort by Social Credit Premier Bennett of British Columbia to prove himself a more successful banker than was William Aberhart, the founder of Social Credit and one-time premier of Alberta.

Senator Norman P. Lambert (L.-Ontario) spoke in favor of the legislation which is being debated on second reading prior to joining two other bills for the establishment of chartered banks which now are before the Senate banking committee. They are for the establishment of the Bank of Western Canada and the Laurentide Bank.

Senator Lambert said Western Canada is conscious of having been financially subservient to the East in earlier periods of its history.

He said this inhibition "really assumes the form and thought of an inferiority complex with respect to the dominant influence of the headquarters of industry and finance, which have resided mainly in Toronto and Montreal."

"Superficially this might be regarded as an evidence of imitative institutionalism—the desire to have monumental head office buildings on the street corners of their own rapidly growing cities," he said. Senator Lambert indicated that constitutional considerations should not be allowed to prevent the granting of a bank to British Columbia.

The province wanted to accommodate its own economic requirements. "If they cannot get these requirements from within their own country because of restrictions in present federal legislation, they will surely seek them elsewhere."

Senator George F. White (PC—Ontario) opposed the bill on grounds it was unconstitutional and that present banking facilities are adequate.

There were 5,600 branch banks in Canada—more per capita than in the United States or Great Britain.

Approval would give the province controlling interest of 25 per cent in the $100,000,000 venture. This was contrary to constitutional provisions and would lead to other provinces setting up similar banks that ultimately could be used to wield political and financial control over the federal government and the Bank of Canada.

Fund Drive Opens In Gasoline Fight

BURNS LAKE (CP)—A public appeal has been launched for funds to assist Cyril Shelford, Social Credit MLA for Okanagan, in his continuing battle for lower gasoline prices in the B.C. interior. The appeal, announced here Thursday, is for funds to assist Mr. Shelford in "traveling expenses and legal costs."

The government backbencher threatened to run as an independent candidate in the 1963 provincial election unless a royal commission was appointed to probe gasoline prices. The commission was appointed with the commissioner, Judge C. W. Morrow of Prince George, holding hearings on the lower mainland and in the interior. Further hearings will be held, June 8 at Prince George and June 11 at Burns Lake.

So far, Mr. Shelford has appeared at every hearing, bearing the cost of lodging and travel himself. The new fund, "The Cyril Shelford gas price fund committee, Burns Lake, B.C.," has asked for donations to assist him "in his task of presenting information" to the royal commission.

Bilingual Mayor Wilson Real Envoy for Unity

Mayor R. B. Wilson was described here as "a real ambassador for the unity of Canada" after welcoming two Quebec visitors to yesterday's city council meeting with a brief speech in French.

The guests of council were Mayor Robert Cauchon of Valleyfield, chairman of the Union Des Municipalites, Quebec, and Marcel Jambert, Montreal, executive secretary of the provincial body.

Mayor Wilson read his address in French, then repeated it in English. "On behalf of city council," he said, "I wish to welcome you to the city of Victoria. We hope that you enjoy your visit to our city and that you will return again soon."

Making his first visit to B.C., Mayor Cauchon said he had come to learn all that he could "so we can know you better."

"I have heard many good things about your fair city, and I have not been disappointed."

NOT SURPRISED

Mayor Cauchon said British Columbians must not be surprised at the outbreaks of nationalism similar to those in many other parts of the world, which are occurring in Quebec.

"This (nationalist) movement is not serious," he said. "The great majority of our people in Quebec are for co-existence with the rest of Canada."

CERTAIN DEMANDS

"Quebec has certain demands upon the agreement of confederation signed 100 years ago. But if we do need improvements, this can be achieved by knowing each other better."

Mayor Cauchon concluded: "We need more men like Mayor Wilson to improve and strengthen confederation."

RECEDE INTO PAST

Mayor Wilson said the problems existing between English and French-speaking Canadians will recede into the past when people of both cultures get to know one another better.

"There is a tremendous reservoir of goodwill towards Quebec and its people not only here in Victoria but throughout B.C.," he said.

The Quebec visitors, on a day trip to Vancouver Island, en route to the convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in Regina next week, were provided with a car and were shown local sights by Commissioner Alan Maclean of Victoria Visitors Bureau. They were also guests of the city at a small private lunch.

Six City Cadets Graduate Today

A Victoria student at Royal Roads who won the Commandant's Cup for outstanding Athletic Achievement, is among six Victorians who will graduate today.

Navy Officer Cadet M. M. Spotswood, of 285 Helmcken, was presented with the cup yesterday at the Parents' Day portion of the graduation ceremonies.

OTHER VICTORIANS

Other Victorians who graduate today are G. J. H. E. Archbold, 618 Linkless; C. R. G. Davis, 2275 Oak Bay Avenue; R. D. Guelpa, 2533 Garden; all navy officer cadets, and army officer cadet, W. H. Braden, 5718 Roseberry.

The ceremonies today will be marked with a march past and inspection. The cadets will be addressed by the inspecting officer and awards presented to outstanding students.

More than 1,500 guests are expected to be on hand. Music for the march past will be supplied by the bands of HMCS Naden and the QOR's.

Cadets will continue their training at Royal Military College in Kingston before receiving their commissions two years from now.

Russian Exodus Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some slow-down in the removal of Soviet troops from Communist Cuba was reported in informed circles yesterday.

Authoritative quarters said they had no dependable explanation for an apparent delay in getting the Soviet troops out, but expressed belief the delay and threat of sabotage and infiltration by Cuban exile groups were not the main reason.

Damp Holiday

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP)—More than 100 students at Muncie Burris High School got a half-day vacation from classes Thursday—and they all cried about it.

A student walking down a hallway dropped a jar of liquid tear gas.

Brewers' Dream International

LONDON (UPI)—A quartet of brewers who between them produce more than 10,000,000 barrels of beer a year yesterday announced the formation of a British-Swedish-Canadian-Belgian consortium that would fulfill "a brewer's dream."

It will ensure drinkers can get "a truly international beer of uniform character and quality throughout the world."

The firms involved are Allied Breweries of Britain, John Labatt of Canada, Fripp of Sweden and Unibra of Belgium. They have formed, in Bermuda, a new company called Skol International which will brew and develop the beer throughout the world.

Group companies already operate 70 breweries in their own countries as well as in the United States, Spain and the Congo. Through investments they also have interests in breweries in Ireland, the West Indies and parts of Africa.

Sea Racer Must Wait

Launching Too Late for Swiftsure

By MIKE GADSBY

At least one yacht built with the Swiftsure in mind will have to wait another year until it gets a run at the annual race, which starts Saturday morning.

The Warrior, an ocean racer, that measures 36 feet, seven inches from bow to stern, was designed and produced by Raymond Richards, a naval architect who came to Victoria from Seattle 3½ years ago.

Warrior is the third development in its family of form and coefficient, and follows the Pelagus and the Sabrina, which were co-designed by Mr. Richards in Victoria.

Larger than its predecessors, the Warrior has a unique design which features low wetted surface achieved without sacrificing directional stability and steering efficiency.

It has been purchased by a San Francisco man, and has been designed as a flat-out ocean racer.

"It was our original plan to enter the yacht in the Swiftsure," said Mr. Richards, "but late delivery of equipment has put off its launching date until about June 10."

The Warrior will get its first taste of competition in the Pacific International Yachting Association races at Bellingham June 21 to July 4.

Mr. Richards, an ardent yachtsman as well as designer, has himself sailed in 11 Swiftsure races, and will be a crew member aboard the Norma of Wight, owned by Victoria's Ron Ramsey, in Saturday's race.

He said observance of the rules in the Swiftsure has never been a problem, since yachtsmen take the race very seriously and wouldn't be content to win against the rules.

"It would be easy for a yachtsman to get away with starting his motor during the race, but it's just something that doesn't occur to them," said Mr. Richards.

"Occasionally some emergency may arise where a motor would have to be started, but it's always up to the skipper concerned to report that he has disqualified himself."

Mr. Richards will be racing against the two yachts he helped design in Saturday's race. The Pelagus and the Sabrina will both be entered by their American buyers.

Wartime Students To Re-Live Past

Former Mount Douglas High School students who used to dance the noon-hour away to wartime records, will dance again June 13 at the school's reunion.

The band will play old favorites such as Cheri Cheri Bl, Sometimes and Yours as students from the years 1938 to 1948 meet again at the school, now Mount Douglas senior secondary.

The event is being organized by Mrs. Nancy Craig, 4028 Gordon Head Road and anyone who attended during those years may phone her to register at GR 7-2823.

Three current long-serving staff members, principal Eric Foster, vice-principal James Muir and Mrs. Hilda Sampson are being invited to give talks about old times.

Mrs. Craig would like to hear from anyone who has photographs of the 10-year school events.

Last night there was an Old Timers' reception at the hotel and a Fellowship banquet at Victoria Curling Club.

Key Jobs for Two

Two Esquimalt men were given important jobs as the B.C. Arson, Audiotapes and Stadiums Association held its annual convention in Nanaimo Tuesday. Coun. James Bryant was named to a committee to investigate "fluctuations" in power rates from one part of B.C. to another and eventually seek lower rates. Joe Larnell was elected second vice-president.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan. If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if excess fat doesn't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blots disappear—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

A slip of paper drawn from the replica of a 300-year-old loving cup designated E. J. Marsh, of 1180 Munro, as winner of the Colonist Historic Building Contest.

Mr. Marsh, who wins $100 Canada Saving Bond, presented by the Colonist and the National Trust, was one of 20 people who were finalists in the contest.

Many hundreds of entries were submitted over the 12 weeks of the contest in which entrants were called on to identify portions of historic Victoria buildings.

When the contest closed there were about 50 people who had identified the historic buildings correctly from picture clues; a tie-breaker of clues to four buildings reduced the number of identifications to 20.

MEMBERSHIP

The 19 runners-up receive memberships in the Greater Victoria Historic Buildings Trust.

The contest was sponsored by the Colonist with arrangements made by Dr. Hugh Borsman, chairman of the chamber of commerce Preservation of Historic Buildings committee; Mrs. Joyce McCulloch, and Mrs. Fiona Monckton, members of the committee and Rod Clark, special projects consultant for the city.

CITY HALL

Mr. Clark, Mrs. McCulloch, Mrs. Monckton, Dr. Borsman, Gordon Empey, manager of the National Trust, were present at city hall yesterday when Dennis Young, city manager, acting for Mayor R. B. Wilson, drew the name of Mr. Marsh from the loving cup presented to the city by the Lord Mayor of London last year.

Purpose of the contest was to excite interest in historic buildings in view of the work of the preservation committee. The contest proved not only that Victorians know a lot about the old buildings but that they are also interested in them.

THREE WINNERS

Each week of the contest, three winners were selected to be given membership of the Greater Victoria Historic Buildings Trust.

That organization, which will have its incorporation meeting June 11, will succeed the preservation committee and will work to acquire old structures as historic buildings, to advise the government and to look after the buildings when preserved for their historic interest.

RUNNERS-UP

The 19 runners-up include an 11-year-old girl, Ruth T. McLaughlin; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Reid, Rodney Bevan, Mrs. S. R. Bowden, Mr. and Mrs. R. Davis, Miss Marilyn de France, Alan Donovan, Miss Jean Dunlop, H. A. Fraser, Miss Judith L. Gregor, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Alex J. James, R. H. McLaughlin, George Mowat, Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin, R. H. Muirhead, Mrs. Marjorie Shaw, Mrs. G. E. Simpson, Elizabeth Wheeler.

Are You Drinking Safe Water?

"Most of the water you drink was probably sewage not so long ago." This startling statement sums up a growing menace. Read in June Reader's Digest how to spot detergents in drinking water, what household filters are available, and how to change hard tap water to soft for as little as $50. Lady Bird's Tenant Repels GOP Fixers

AUTAGVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Alabama young Republicans wanted it fixed from the ground up. Or, as his wife put it: "If they ain't gonna do it right, it ain't no use to start."

Cutler said he turned down the offers of work from several carpenters who accompanied the Republicans because he felt the job they planned would not be adequate.

"That point they want to put on the tin," he said, pointing to seven-gallon cans on the porch, "would all wash off in a rain or two. This cement would just stop the leaks a month or two."

Flames Consume Body After Earth Trembles

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The body of Jawaharlal Nehru, wrapped in silken saris, was cremated here Thursday on a pyre of sandalwood and flowers by the sacred river Ganga as the grief-stricken cries of thousands of Indians rent the air.

A great roaring noise and an earth tremor centred 10 miles away preceded the funeral and increased the awe surrounding the death of India's sole ruler since the nation won independence from Britain in 1947.

SKULL BURSTING

Hindu scripture says that the sound of the skull bursting marks the sign the body is consumed.

Mourners were expected to remain by the pyre for 24 hours until the ashes were collected by the family. Eventually the ashes will be strewn along the holy Hindu river Ganges near Allahabad, the late prime minister's birthplace and home.

HEART ATTACK

The 74-year-old statesman, known as "Panditji" to his 400,000 countrymen, died Wednesday of a heart attack and shock.

Sanjay, the 18-year-old son of Nehru's widow and daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, thrust a torch into the sandalwood pyre and the body of the man who led India from British domination was consumed by flames.

CLIMAXES MOURNING

The sacred ceremony climaxed 24 hours of anguished mourning unlike any display of mass grief since the death of Nehru's mentor, Mohandas Gandhi, who was assassinated 16 years ago.

There was no repetition of the mob scenes at Gandhi's cremation although two persons were reported killed and 12 injured earlier Thursday in a crush to get a last view of Nehru's body on the pyre of his home.

PAY HOMAGE

Among foreigners here to pay homage to Nehru were British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, Soviet Vice-Premier A. N. Kosygin and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Pakistan was represented by Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Nehru's body was borne on a gun carriage drawn by men of the armed forces on its last six-mile journey from his home.

LSD Trial

Drug Buried In Desert Court Told

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A defendant in the LSD trial here testified Thursday that in 1960 he buried two large flasks and 4,000 pills of the hallucinatory drug in Covington Flat near Joshua Tree, Calif.

Bernard Roseman, 30, who describes himself as a writer, is on trial with Bernard Gopely, 38, on charges of smuggling LSD and selling it in interstate commerce in violation of U.S. food and drug administration regulations.

MADE DRUG

Roseman said the LSD never left California. He testified that Dr. James Groesman, now a tobacco research chemist, made the drug starting in August, 1960 in the California Biological Chemical Corporation laboratories in Los Angeles during off-hours.

He said that Dr. Groesman was interested in getting a supply of LSD for an effort to correct certain of his emotional problems.

The LSD had almost a miraculous effect, Roseman testified, and Dr. Groesman lost interest in the drug. It was then, said Roseman, that he buried the LSD in the desert.

Mescaline Given At Party

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Persons who attended a party in Vancouver during which reporter Ben Metcalf was injured were given the drug mescaline, not LSD, the defendant in a smuggling trial here testified Thursday.

Bernard Roseman, 30, said that Vancouver accorionist Leo Aquino "organized the party and obtained the mescaline from a doctor."

Roseman said the reporter, while under the influence of the drug, wandered away from the home where the party was being held.

Roseman said he and co-defendant Bernard Gopely, 38, as the only two who had not taken the drug, went out to search for Metcalf. Roseman said they found him face down in a ditch some distance from the house.

"I don't know how he was injured," the witness said. "He may have been hit by a car."

Series of Services Will Mourn Nehru

A series of religious services which began last night in Victoria's East Indian circles to mourn the late Indian Prime Minister Nehru, will end on June 14.

Various temple officials began eulogies on the life of Nehru and the slow reading of the 1,400-page Sikh bible, Granth Sahib, was started. The readings will continue daily until June 14, when members of the public may attend a memorial service at the Sikh Temple, 1210 Topaz. In keeping with tradition, any visitors will have to remove their shoes when attending the ceremony.

Hurried meetings were organized yesterday to organize the services by Mohinder Singh Randhawa, secretary and Atma Singh Dodi, president, of the Khalsa Diwan Society. The final ceremony June 14 will begin at 8 a.m. and end at noon.

At the Gallery

By Ina D. D. Uthoff

Biennial Paintings Show Wide Range

The 5th Biennial of Canadian painting, or at any rate selections from it, is now on the walls of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Selected by Russell Harper, former curator of Canadian art at the National Gallery of Canada, and submitted to a jury for final selection, the collection was first shown at the Commonwealth Institute in London last summer.

It is now touring major Canadian art centres. The reception it received in London, England, was not favorable.

Painting has moved into the dimension of shock, but no one can deny its power.

Anything goes in painting nowadays, splintered beach wood, heavily encrusted paint, collages built up with odds and ends.

Most of the abstract expressionists are working outside the area of painting, the representational image has been eliminated once and for all.

They claim that painting is self-discovery and that the image is arrived at through the art of painting.

Well, whether we may agree with this or not, the fact remains that contemporary painting can be a highly stimulating thing and it looks as if the present trends have come to stay.

Many of our better known painters are providing us with surprises, though others go on developing in their own way.

Our two local painters, Maxwell Bates, ARCA, and Margaret Peterson, have enough experience to participate in the new freedom extended to artists without sacrificing any of their own individuality.

At a time when fine technique rarely appears, the control shown in Maxwell Bates' hard-edge painting Facets attracts attention.

Margaret Peterson's huge Lottery Played by the Gods dominates the main gallery by its size, but I do not feel that it represents one of her more important contributions to Canadian art.

A precise but static Lemieux hangs beside one of the finest Goodridge Roberts canvases I have seen. Eastern Township is packed with energy, the paint has been used in a frenzy of creation.

Ridged paint creates the structure of the composition Three Horizons by Kazuo Nakamura, while we find Donald Jarvis breaking into deeply luminous color in Blue Standing Form.

Bruno Bobak's color becomes increasingly vital in Saint John Harbour. Gordon Smith is again asserting his authority as an outstanding painter with his large canvas entitled Painting.

Jean McEwen's Verticale Traversante Le Verte has a quality of paint that creates a rich luminosity of unusual depth, the red glowing through the surface pattern of yellow-green paint and the black rich as ebony but with an inner glow.

Where is Riopelle going now? A change seems to be indicated by his use of more somber colors, appearing at first glance to be somewhat muted but offering an added range of mood.

John Kerner also shows a new direction with quite beautiful color glowing like a precious stone.

In the midst of all the excitement, Alex Colville's Swimmer, meticulously painted but with sensitive feeling, provides a reassurance that fine painting is not a thing of the past.

U.S. to Take More Gas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has announced plans to import an additional 200,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily from Canada in 1965 and 1967.

The company indicated half the gas would be piped in by 1966 and the remainder a year later. Pacific Gas Transmission Co., a PG&E affiliate, operates the Oregon, Washington and Idaho segment of the 1,400-mile Alberta-California pipeline.

Criminal Negligence Trial Decision Deferred to June

Magistrate William Oulter will decide June 4 whether to commit for trial a Work Point soldier charged with criminal negligence in the death May 17 of a young Saanich girl.

Rifman Leslie Perry was charged after Della Mae Hoegl, 19, died from injuries received in a two-car crash at Douglas and Kenneth.

Magistrate Oulter reserved judgment after three days of testimony in Saanich court, most of which involved police and medical evidence.

RIPPED OFF SIDE

Yesterday, police testimony indicated Rifman Perry's car had travelled 103 feet with brakes effectively applied prior to the crash, which ripped the side off one car and "tele-scoped" the other.

Defence counsel Rodney Taylor asked the court to consider a lesser charge of dangerous driving, which would not in effect amount to manslaughter. Crown counsel Kenneth Murphy urged the charge be allowed to stand, as Perry's driving had constituted negligence, he said.

Two youths were each fined $50 yesterday in city court after pleading guilty to stealing two large floor ash trays from a downtown financial firm.

Barry L. Patterson and John C. Rodgers, both of Work Point Barracks, said they had taken the $9.50 receptacles from the premises "for a lark."

Magistrate Oulter said it was unfortunate what the youths considered a lark resulted in them now having criminal records for theft of goods valued at less than $50.

A Saanich youth was told his only hope was a complete break from his associates and environment yesterday, and sentenced to one year in prison for breaking and entering. James R. McGregor, 100 Cadillac, was one of two youths convicted last week for breaking into Gibson's Food Market on the Patricia Bay Highway.

In addition to the one-year definite term, Magistrate Oulter sentenced McGregor to four months indefinite confinement in the young offenders' unit.

Cosmic Cloud

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet scientists have established the existence of a cloud of cosmic dust averaging about 47 miles deep surrounding the earth, the Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday. Scientists believe the cloud is made up of residues from the burning of meteorites after they enter earth's atmosphere, Tass said.

President-Threatener Held

HOUSTON — Secret service agents arrested former Democratic gubernatorial candidate Johnnie Mae Blackwelder for threatening the life of President Johnson. In 1955 and 1960 the 50-year-old, self-styled woman evangelist was charged with writing threats to President Eisenhower. Both times she was committed to the state mental hospital.

PEKING — Communist Chinese Premier Chen Biao and his wife personally welcomed Dr. Hewlett Johnson, former "Red" dean of Canterbury, England, and Mrs. Johnson on their arrival here.

DALLAS — Sheriff Bill Decker reported condemned killer Jack Ruby started "railing the devil" in his county jail cell and had to be forcibly subdued by guards. Ruby broke his eyeglasses and threw a spittoon at a light fixture, breaking the bulb.

VANCOUVER — Weldon Chan, a Chinese who spent more than three years hiding from Canadian immigration authorities, expects to become a landed immigrant in three weeks. His lawyer, Harry Fan, said he has received a letter from the immigration department saying Chan has been judged suitable to become a Canadian citizen.

FRANKFURT — Helmut Brandt, 54-year-old West German trade union journalist released recently from an East German prison, crossed into West Berlin Thursday.

NEW YORK — The Peter Lawford, blackballed from the Manhattan apartment they first wanted to buy, "have found" and have been accepted for a 14-room duplex on upper Fifth Avenue where there are no barriers against actors and Democrats.

OSHAWA — Rare blood donated by Mrs. Edward Lundeen and Miss Helen Lundeen of Half-Island Cove, N.S., will be used here during the weekend. Mrs. Evelyn Curran, 28, is expected to give birth to her second child Monday by elective induction, a method of forced birth.

LONDON, Ont. — A. M. Freeman, principal of London South Secondary School and a brother-

-in-law of John Diefenbaker, died at 58.

WINSLOW, England — Richard Orms, 36-year-old model who posed for a post office brochure advertising colored telephones, has been informed that he cannot have a phone of his own for at least 18 months.

NEW YORK — Four men indicted with Lowell Stirell in 1961 in a $3,000,000 stock fraud case pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy, fraud and peddling unregistered shares of a Canadian corporation. The men are Joel Winstein, 39, of Lido, N.Y.; Irving Bernstein, 57, of Great Neck, N.Y.; his brother, Albert Bernstein, 59, of Brooklyn, and Morris Gilbert, 62, of Westbury, N.Y.

BOMBAY — Mehboob Khan,

Macleans Adds To Holdings

TORONTO (CP) — The Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd. has bought three publications of Fraser's Directories Ltd., the companies announced jointly Thursday. Price was not disclosed.

The three are Fraser's Canadian Trade Directory, Fraser's Canadian Textile Apparel and Variety Goods Directory and Fraser's Canadian Shoe and Leather Directory.

MAKE PROFIT
The aggregate net profit of 101 major Swedish companies rose 11.7 per cent in 1963, with dividends increasing a total 6.7 per cent.

Social Security

Are You Eligible For U.S. Benefits?

Residents of this area who have lived and worked in the United States at any time may be eligible for monthly benefits if they were covered by the U.S. social security plan.

Benefits begin at age 62 and apply even though people haven't worked in the United States for many years. This rule also holds good for survivors of people who have worked in the U.S. such as widows over 62 years of age.

REGULAR SCHEDULE
In order to determine whether people qualify for benefits a representative of the district office of the Social Security Administration pays visits to Victorias on a regular schedule. His offices are in the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, Canadian Pacific Dock Building, 468 Belleville Street, and his next visit will be June 10 and 11. Office hours June 10 are from noon to 4:30 p.m. and on June 11 from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

Hewlett Johnson

55, president of the Motion Picture Producers Association of India, died of a heart attack on hearing the news of Prime Minister Nehru's death.

WASHINGTON — "We would be untrue to the trust he reposed in us, if we did not remain true to the tasks he relinquished when God summoned," said President Johnson, six months and six days after J. F. Kennedy was killed in Dallas. Kennedy would have been 47 years old today.

VIENTIANE — Joel Henry, 30, correspondent for Agence France-Presse in Laos, was ordered by Premier Souvanna Phouma to leave the country. Souvanna charged Henry incorrectly reported 3,000 neutralist troops and their tank regiment had defected to Pathet Lao.

Custody Ordered

VANCOUVER (CP) — James Leonard Meeker, 35, was declared a dangerous sexual offender Thursday and ordered kept in preventive custody. Supreme Court Justice H. W. Melness ordered the detention. It will start after the completion of a five-year sentence for indecent assault on a 49-year-old woman.

The Scoundrel On Sidelines

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)—The Scoundrel, Northern Dancer's closest pursuer when the Canadian-bred colt won the Preakness Stakes, won't be around to challenge the Dancer in his bid for the triple crown.

The long-striding three-year-old, third behind Northern Dancer and Hill Rise in the Kentucky Derby, was declared out of the Belmont Stakes at New York June 6 when he injured a foreleg during a gallop Wednesday.

Trainer Mesh Tenney estimated The Scoundrel would be sidelined for at least six months with what a veterinarian described as an acute inflammation of the superficial flexor tendon of the left foreleg. The veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Calando, said the damage is not permanent.

The Scoundrel was purchased by San Francisco sportsman Kjell Qvale for $500,000 last week from Rex Elsworth, who raced him in the first two classics for three-year-olds.

Withdrawal of The Scoundrel leaves Hill Rise, the California two-year-old champion, as the

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

When Pete Rozelle was a press agent he was a good one, but when he moved into the office of Commissioner of the National Football League he checked his public relations sense outside.

He was offered a chance the other day to ornament the professional football program with an attraction that would have captivated millions of fans, to provide at no cost to his league a half-million dollars for the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund, and to acknowledge gracefully the existence of the American Football League—a fact of life which some day will be forced down his throat.

Clinging to the dog-in-the-manger policy of his long, he turned the back of his slender neck to National Broadcasting Co.'s proposal for an all-star game between the leagues with NBC contributing $500,000 to the Library Fund for television rights.

"Not interested," Pete said, adding unwisely that arrangements already had been made to give the Fund part of the proceeds from a pre-season exhibition between the Philadelphia Eagles and Detroit Lions. It wasn't bright to mention this because it made a comparison inevitable, a comparison that has to be odious when $500,000 is measured against the fishcake the exhibition produces.

Memorial to a Martyr

Of course, Rozelle may feel that his league paid sufficient tribute to the memory of our martyred President last Nov. 24.

That weekend the world mourned. The taxi drivers of Rome parked a cab bearing a black wreath in front of the American Embassy.

In Munich, the glittering crowd assembled for the grand opening of the new opera house dispersed in tears after the second act.

In London, men wept openly on the floor of Parliament. In the tiniest villages of Israel, shops closed their doors and drew the blinds.

In the National League—but not the American—it was business as usual. "There can be no disrespect when none is intended," Rozelle declared. Some might consider the point debatable.

Let no one imagine that NBC was without self-interest in proposing the game, or the American League in endorsing the suggestion. The AFL has been pushing hard for recognition as a major league. Much progress has been made and ultimately the goal will be won and the National League will be forced to accept the fact.

Joe Foss and his colleagues have been unwise in agitating for a "world championship" playoff between the leagues because the Americans aren't ready. Having their champion shown up on the field would set back their cause.

An all-star game, though, would be something else. Chances are the Americans could find individuals to perform creditably against anybody and maybe even beat the best of the Nationals. Rozelle is taking no such risks.

It Would Interest Sponsors

Having promised $34,000,000 for TV rights to AFL games over five years, NBC has become the custodian of the American League's future. Anything that brightens the AFL "image"—recognition by the NFL or victory in an all-star game—would help interest sponsors.

Fans care nothing about these matters. It's nothing to them that the NFL holds a grudge against the AFL for bringing a $10,000,000 monopoly suit and for costing the Nationals a million or more through competitive bidding for talent.

Least of all are they interested in the war of the networks, though it is a real war. Outbid by the Columbia Broadcasting System for the National League's weekly games, NBC was infuriated when Rozelle handed the championship to CBS without letting NBC bid. Pete mentioned a "conflict of interest," meaning that CBS had been hideously embarrassed in recent years when—after handling the games all season—it had to stand back while NBC plucked the plum CBS had cultivated.

NBC wasn't about to let go of the title game, which Tom Gallery had the foresight to tie up years ago. Open bidding would have produced more for the players and the pension fund than the $1,800,000 CBS is paying. But Rozelle is committed to the CBS camp.

To the public, all this kneeling and gouging must reflect a lack of confidence in a game which—the pros like to boast—is replacing baseball as the national sport. The public believes the game is plenty big enough to accommodate two major leagues. Obviously, Rozelle and his colleagues do not.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster moved back into first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League Thursday as they defeated Nanaimo 12-7 in a lack-lustre contest before 900 fans. The win moved New Westminster one point ahead of Vancouver in the four-team league.

The game was highlighted by spectacular goal tending on the part of both Alf Shuker of New Westminster. Shuker stopped 37 shots, 17 of them in the first period alone. Comeau made 39 saves.

Cliff Sepka led the New Westminster attack with two goals and two assists. Paul Parnell and Charlie Saunders scored two goals each for the winners. Singles went to Jack Biondo, Don Boyd, Ron Loftus, Mike Gates, Doug Wallsmith and Terry McKibbin.

The Nanaimo attack was headed by Terry Davis with two goals and two assists. Larry Clarkson scored twice and Ted Libich scored one goal and had two assists. Singles went to Larry Biggs and Ed McDonald.

The two teams meet again Saturday in Nanaimo.

Santa Claus May Not Run

LONDON (AP)—Only 24 horses were named Wednesday in the third acceptance stage for the Epsom Derby—a sign that the field could be the smallest in years.

If the pattern of past years is followed, several will be withdrawn before the race next Wednesday.

The number of starters is likely to be the smallest since 1960 when 17 horses took part. The smallest post-war field was 15 in 1947.

Santa Claus, 2-1 favorite, was among the acceptors, but there have been rumors he might not run.

Other acceptors: Anselmo, Con Brio, Ravela, Mister Ed, Indiana, Dilettante II, Dromedary, Onidion, Baldrice II, Signal Rocket, Hotroy, Galator, Cold Slipper, Penny Stall, Bahadur, Pillo, Corah IV, Sweet Moss, Roquetfuel, Crete Lionhearted, Mercure II, Le Fabuleux.

This Girl Can Hurl

Whiffs Reporter on Three Pitches

By BOB JEFFREY

To a frustrated baseball player, a softball looks like a bloated watermelon, and the thought of playing softball against girls makes his batting average swell with anticipation.

But all that ends when our hero faces a girl softball pitcher like Gail Archibald.

Gail can strikeout the average frustrated baseball player on three pitches. That's what she did to me last night.

DIDN'T SEE IT

I was just loosening my tie when she threw the first pitch. I wasn't ready. I didn't even see it.

I was set for the second pitch, though. I dug in and swung from the heels. It's lucky I dug in. Otherwise I'd have been blown away.

And that third one. She tried to hit me. It looked as if she was trying to hit me, anyway. Then the ball slid over the centre of the plate, and I had joined Mighty Casey in ignominy.

VICTORIES' STAR

Gail plays for Victoria Vettes, the defending western Canada senior women's champions. And they are what they are largely because of Gail's pitching ability.

This season Vettes have played four games totalling about 28 innings. Gail has pitched 24 of those innings and has been credited with four wins. Last season she went undefeated through the B.C. and western Canada finals. Her last loss was "sometime early last summer I guess."

FROM WINDMILL

Gail's delivery is just as impressive as the results she gets. Her fastball comes whipping at the batter from a windmill—or "buzz-ball" as she calls it—wind-up, not the soft, underhand motion that many people associate with girls' softball.

She has played softball since elementary school. "Everybody plays softball there, but I really liked it."

Her first organized competition came with the YWCA juvenile team as a centre fielder. She became a pitcher six years ago.

"Everybody's a pitcher," she laughed. "We all used to fool around at it. Then I pitched a game, and I've pitched pretty well ever since."

Gail's other chief sporting interest is golf. She's been playing less than a year but is already a devotee and calls it "a great game."

She admits to having dated softball players, but "not because they're softball players."

I do like a fellow who's athletic though.

And what's her biggest thrill in softball? Pitching a no-hitter? Winning a big game?

No. "It's great to pitch a no-hitter, but if I can pitch a game and get a base-hit—that's a thrill for me. My hitting's not very good."

Vettes play Vancouver Fairmonts Sunday at 2:30 and 6 p.m. Gail Archibald's pitching the first game.

And probably most of the second one.

Liverpool Has Power

Missing Stars No Handicap

Liverpool, England's first division soccer champion, will be without three of its top stars when it meets Meidericher of West Germany at Empire Stadium Saturday, June 6 at 8:30. But the absence of Roger Hunt, Gordon Milne and Peter Thompson doesn't seem to have hampered the Merseyside side too much on its tour so far.

Hunt scored four goals for England Wednesday night when it routed the United States, 10-0, in New York. The English team party, which includes Milne and Thompson, is on its way to a tournament in Brazil.

But also Wednesday night, Liverpool dumped Meidericher 4-1 in Detroit. Meidericher was the runner-up in West Germany's super league which was founded this season.

MEN TO WATCH

There will be no shortage of stars involved in Saturday's game, however. Two men to watch will be Liverpool centre-forward Ian St. John and inside-forward Alf Arrowsmith. St. John has been capped over 20 times for Scotland, his last cap was in October, 1963, when Scotland lost 2-1 to Northern Ireland.

Last night's score: Transport Workers 1, McLaren's 3.

Next game: Saturday—McLaren's vs. Gravelles, 1:30 p.m., Royal Athletic Park.

Errors proved costly to Transport Workers last night as they out-hit McLaren's, but still dropped a 3-1 Senior Amateur Baseball League decision at Royal Athletic Park.

Transport Workers jumped into the lead in the top of the first inning when Bud Taylor scored from third base on a fielder's choice.

But the Workers gave the run back in the bottom of the first inning. Tom Moore singled for McLaren's. He went to second on a wild pitch, took third on a fielder's choice.

Transport Workers were just as generous in the fifth inning when Bob Bowles got a walk and went to second on an error. With McLaren's threatening to punt, Transport Workers pulled in their third baseman, Bowles broke for third and, with the third baseman out of position, the catcher's throw sailed into left-field allowing him to score.

McLaren's last run came in the sixth inning when Larry McKinty singled. Another Transport Workers' error, this time on an attempted pick-off, sent him to second, and Bowles drove him in with a single.

Brent Siddons, pitching for Transport Workers, struck out nine and walked four, while Steve Bishop struck out four and walked six for McLaren's.

Milligan Resigns But New Sponsor

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria United has lost a manager but gained a sponsor for next season in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Wally Milligan, manager for the three seasons since United re-entered the league, has resigned, with his successor still to be named. The new sponsor is Smith Cedar Products Ltd., and it's a sponsorship offered with no strings attached.

STILL UNITED

The club will still bear the Victoria United name, with no crests or advertisements on the uniforms. The sponsorship, in effect, is simply a favor from a soccer supporter to a soccer team.

"It couldn't be better," Milligan said last night, following a meeting between the club and the Victoria and District Soccer League. "The club is very fortunate."

NO SPLIT

United returned to the coast league in 1961-62 under sponsorship of the district league, which provided approximately $500.

Club directors were emphatic last night in pointing out that there has been no split with the district league, and that its president will still hold a place on the club executive, but the selection of manager and coach will be strictly up to that executive, not the league.

ON OUR OWN

"The sponsorship simply means that we will be able to make it on our own financially," a United spokesman said.

Golf Meet For Legion

More than 40 golfers are expected to enter the Royal Canadian Legion's first southern Vancouver Island golf tournament to be held at Gorge Vale Golf Club June 6.

Play will be 18 holes, with winners decided on a handicap basis. Post entries will be accepted.

Bate Boys Bag Baubles

VANCOUVER—The Bate brothers of Victoria won two B.C. age group trap shooting championships here on the weekend.

Ken Bate took the under-18 title with a score of 86, and younger brother Ricky won the under-14 division with a score of 67.

"We've been fortunate in that we've never had to go back to the league for money; this way we should be sure we never have to."

Replacement of Milligan is the club's biggest problem at the moment, and it won't be easily solved.

TWO REFUSE

Two men—ex-United halfback Harold Holroyd and former Scottish professional Archie Taylor—have already been offered the job and turned it down. Holroyd feels he will be able to play again next season and Taylor, Milligan's personal choice as his successor, prefers to remain connected with the city's juvenile set-up.

And Giants Lead

Willie Hits Number 18

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Willie Mays' 18th home run, a two-run blast in the eighth inning, gave San Francisco Giants a 2-1 victory Thursday night over the slumping St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory pulled the Giants into first place in the National League. The Chicago outfielder levelled on loser Galen Cisco leading off the sixth inning.

At Kansas City Orlando Pena benefited from three unearned runs and brought his record to 6-3 with help from reliever John Wyatt in the ninth.

The contest at Cincinnati was the longest in the majors this season. Under the NL curfew rule, no inning can be started after 12:50 a.m. local time.

The teams scored two runs each in the 12th inning.

League, one game in front of Philadelphia Phillies who lost 6-5 at Pittsburgh.

In other NL games, Houston Astros defeated Milwaukee Braves 4-2 and Chicago Cubs shut out New York Mets, 2-0.

Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds played to a 2-2 tie in a 11-inning game ended by curfew. The game will be replayed at a later date.

In the only American League scheduled, Kansas City Athletics capitalized on four errors and handed Juan Pizarro his first loss by defeating league-leading Chicago White Sox 4-1.

MILD GIANTS

Curly Simmons had shut out the Giants on five hits and the Cardinals held a 1-0 lead going into the eighth. Cap Peterson started things for the Giants by drawing a walk, and two outs later Mays drilled an opposite field shot to the 354-foot mark in right.

A fan in the stands touched the ball, and Mays was waved home by the umpires.

LINES SINGLE

Dick Schofield lined a two-out single to right field and scored Jim Paganioni with the winning run in the ninth inning as Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia.

Schofield's hit off reliever Jack Baldschun came after Paganioni walked and Willie Stargell blooped a single to short centre, sending Paganioni to third. Baldschun had retired the first two batters.

UNDER PROTEST

The Phillies played the game under protest. Manager Gene Mauch lodged the protest in the sixth inning because Pirates' relief pitcher Roy Face was in the scoreboard in left field.

Elby Williams, the National League's leading hitter with a .377 average, hit his 11th homer and led the Cubs to their shut-out over the Mets.

Williams' walk, a wrong field last into the teeth of a 15-mile-an-hour wind, landed

Enough for Beamer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nub retired retirement plans following Beamer, Western Football Conference all-star fullback for the last two years, Thursday reiterated his statement that he does not want to play football this season.

"I've just had enough of football. I would just as soon get out," he said in an interview. "The decision isn't final, he said, but it's 'almost for certain.'"

The B.C. Lions are still trying to change the mind of their star fullback. Although Beamer first re-

Beamer led the league in rushing with 1,161 yards two years ago.

He wants to quit football for a number of reasons, he said. One of the chief factors was the travelling involved.

In addition, he recently became a father and wants to devote more time to his family.

FIVE SEASONS

"When I started professional football I had some aims," he said. "The game was to be a means to an end and I gave myself five seasons. I have played five years and now I would like to lead a normal life."

Beamer said he intends to continue his successful career as a stock broker here.

PETRA BURKA, Canadian women's figure-skating champion and third in the 1964 Winter

Olympics, said that she is a bit disappointed that Olympic and world champion Speake Dijkstra of The Netherlands has turned professional. "It would have meant more difficult competition at next year's world championships," Miss Burka said. Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the WFC have signed veterans Roger Saville and Steve Patrick. John Roach, recently retired reserve quarterback of Green Bay Packers, will join Montreal Alouettes of the EFC as an assistant coach.

SANDY STEPHENS, the controversial quarterback of the Toronto Argonauts, has been resigned by the Eastern Football Conference club. Argos have also signed Jean Wehrman and Dave Mann. . . . pari-mutuel clerks at Seattle's Longacres race track have voted to accept a 50-cent-a-day pay raise. . . . Floyd Patterson has arrived in Sweden in complete training for his July 5 heavyweight fight in Stockholm with Eddie Machen.

RALPH DUPAS will meet Canadian welterweight champion Peter Schmitt of Toronto in a 10-round bout in New Orleans June 18. . . . Terry Downes, former world middleweight champion, out-pointed Ed Zarumba in a 10-round bout in Glasgow. . . . car racing driver "Fireball" Roberts, burned in a stock car crash last Sunday, has been taken from the critical list in Charlotte, N.C. . . . Steve Brinkman has been named coach of the re-activated New York Borens of the Eastern Hockey League.

CASSIUS CLAY, world heavyweight boxing champion, has said he would like to defend his title in Africa. "I never realized I was so popular and loved by Africans," he said. . . . Philadelphia Eagles' pro football owner Jerry Weisman has started negotiations to buy Connie Mack Stadium. . . . the life of British track star Dorothy Hyman has been threatened if she takes part in the coming Tokyo Olympics. Her widowed mother also received a letter threatening the life of Miss Hyman's seven-year-old sister Susan. . . . Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League have assigned Mo Mathis to Seattle Totems. . . . Mike Buschak and Frank Stramahan are the only big-name golfers who failed to get past the qualifying rounds for the United States Open.

The Malkin Cup lawn bowling competition begins Monday at the Burnside and Victoria West greens at 7 p.m.

The draw:
Section 1 at Victoria West: 1—Pleck vs. Huest; 2—Tapp vs. Barr; 3—Walsh vs. Dean.
Section 2 at Burnside: 4—Hastings vs. Dickie; 5—Fisher vs. Owen.
Section 3 at Burnside: 6—Landon vs. Cropp; 7—McCall vs. Green.
Section 4 at Burnside: 8—Rendow vs. Hobbie; 9—Kesterton vs. Stewart.
Section 5 at Burnside: 10—Wood vs. Gilmore; 11—Almond vs. Lyman.

There could be meagre pickings of trout on lakes and rivers this weekend following the mid-week black ant hatch. Undoubtedly the trout will have gorged themselves until they can eat no more, but with any luck they will be hungry and snapping again by Saturday.

Saltwater fishing is picking up slowly. Oak Bay waters have been producing best for big springs. The Gap between Chatham and Discovery Islands has been the best spot and off Discovery Light there is a good run of blues as well as the odd big spring.

Sooke, Becher Bay and Victoria waterfront are all producing some spring salmon, although it takes a lot of scratching. Windy weather last weekend made fishing tough, almost impossible in those waters.

Sidney Spit-James Island waters are producing some salmon fishing but Saanich Inlet is anything but hot. However, a slump is always expected there at this time of the year and the Inlet sometimes bounces back about the end of May or early June with a run of springs centred in Finlayson Arm waters. In the meantime, Indian Bay and Cole Bay have been giving up a few springs and many boats are getting some small springs and bluebacks in Finlayson Arm.

Leading VSIAA salmon last week was a 19-pounder caught by Ron Ekstrom on a Tomick plug in Misery Bay. He already had the biggest Inlet salmon of the month . . . a 20-15-pounder.

Blueback fishing is fairly good off the east end of Tent Island, Ladysmith, Crofton, Portlier Pass and the Flat Top Islands, north to Nanooche, Northwest Bay and Qualicum.

Now is the time to look for bluebacks hitting the five-pound weight limit which qualifies them as coho in the King Fisherman contest.

No coho have been weighed in yet, but usually the first coho are weighed in each year over this end-of-May weekend. Clayton's and Deep Bay are usually the best bet. French Creek has been producing a few springs as well as blues.

Salmon fishing has started at Campbell River with bluebacks showing and some springs in the 12 to 16-pound class off the mouth of Campbell River. Comox Bay has been giving up springs up to 20 pounds to herring moochers.

This week's warm weather is just what the doctor ordered for fly fishermen. Once the trout get over their black ant feed they should become real greedy for fly-casters.

Prospect Lake is a good bet. Elk, Beaver and Durrance have all been producing. Sooke has been good for sea-run cutthroats in early morning and evenings. Cowichan River is an excellent bet for trout, especially the browns in the middle reaches. Fly fishing has been good at the top end.

The AOTS derby will be held at Cowichan Lake Saturday with anyone who buys a ticket eligible to compete.

Peter Edwards reports the water temperature in Cowichan Lake has been 15 degrees below normal for mid-May resulting in late trout spawning. Cutthroats up to three pounds are in excellent condition, but most rainbows weighing more than two pounds are pretty dark.

"The fish are there and continue to be caught, but it is very spotty," he reports. One out of every three boats is producing fair catches and they are the ones who spot-check the lake and once they find fish stay around the same spot.

Flatfish without any weight has been best lure, but gang troll and worm without any weight, trolled close to shore, has been producing well.

Somenos and Quamichan Lakes are tapering off, but Fuller Lake and the Chemainus River are still producing well.

Nanaimo Lakes are now producing fairly well.

Campbell River area trout fishing is still good with limits not too hard to catch in all the small lakes and Lower Campbell and Upper Campbell producing well.

Yacht Roll Call, Dancing

Swiftsure Fun Begins Tonight

Ceremonies leading up to Saturday's Swiftsure race will begin in Victoria tonight, when millions of dollars worth of racing yachts will gather in the Inner Harbor with their more than 600 crew members aboard.

Festivities will start at 7 p.m., and include roll call of yachts, a square dance display by 150 dancers on the lawn of the Empress Hotel, a Sunset ceremony on the nearby lawn of the legislative buildings, and an outdoor slide showing after dark by James A. McVie.

The Sunset ceremony will be performed by the 5th B.C. Independent Medium Battery, Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, Western Canada's oldest regiment.

A special feature of the ceremony will be use of a 100-year-old sword, which was presented to Capt. B. W. Pearce, a member of Vancouver Island Volunteer Artillery Company, in 1861.

The race starts at 9:30 a.m. Saturday off Brodie Ledge. It is expected to finish late Sunday afternoon.

'Voice of Swiftsure'

Ardent Yachtsman Left Sea for 'Air'

By MIKE GADSBY

One of Victoria's most ardent yachtsmen gave up sailing in the annual Swiftsure classic a dozen years ago to become the "Voice of Swiftsure."

Humphrey Golby, who has been sailing for more than 40 years, is also one of those chiefly responsible for making the race a major North American classic, and for making Victoria its permanent host.

His voice has become familiar to yachting fans over the years as he gives periodic reports throughout the whole of the race from the information centre in Eaton's window.

The race, originally run in 1930, has been an annual event since shortly after the Second World War. It was originally run on alternate years from Victoria to Swiftsure Bank, off Cape Flattery, and back to Port Townsend, Wash.

PERMANENT HOST

Victoria and Port Townsend took turns starting the race until 1952, when the Pacific International Yachting Association agreed to make Victoria the permanent host club.

This was largely due to the efforts of Mr. Golby, Jack Gann and Monty Christopher, all members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, who were responsible for a major reorganization of the race after the war, which brought it to its present prominence as an internationally recognized testing ground for yachts.

The race has followed its present course since 1952.

SEND BACK DATA

Major sources are a naval escort vessel which sends a regular positional report of the entire fleet, an Island Tug and Barge tugboat manned by news reporters and three representatives of the RVYC, which sends him "color" stories on the race, and a Canadian Coast Guard vessel from which another RVYC member will report.

Besides these, reports will come from the turning vessel stationed at Swiftsure Bank, and from an RCMP vessel which will patrol the C class race between Victoria and Clallam Bay.

ASSESS INFORMATION

From all these sources, Mr. Golby will sort and assess his information for his broadcasts.

A veteran of seven Swiftsure races, Mr. Golby made his first eight race broadcasts directly from a patrol vessel.

"They used to either tape record my reports for broadcasting, or I would broadcast directly from the tug," said Mr. Golby. "But then they decided they wanted someone with more experience to assess information coming in from all sources, so I was put in the office and I haven't seen a Swiftsure race since."

ACTIVE SAILOR

An honorary life member of the RVYC, Mr. Golby is an active sailor with the RVYC and is chairman of the winter Frostbite group.

Mr. Golby had his first sailing accident in 1910 when he came to Canada from England with his parents.

"I fell and broke my leg when we were disembarking at Montreal," he recalls with a grin.

One Way To Stop Smoking?

A Wicklow Street woman found she was smoking more and enjoying it less this week, so she called Saanich police.

She told officers her husband had been putting something in her cigarettes, and the latter had threatened her.

The husband admitted he had put cordite in the woman's cigarettes "to make her quit smoking." Cordite is a prime ingredient of gunpowder. He said it was harmless.

Police advised the couple to seek the more orthodox types of marital counselling available.

Fire Dies In Smoke Crackdown

The fire went out of a proposed city crackdown on the last two major sources of smoke nuisance yesterday, leaving the prospect of a summer to be spent under a grey pall.

City council unanimously approved a resolution that B.C. Forest Products, Point Ellice division, and Smith Cedar Products be asked how long it will be before their beehive waste burners are shut down.

WASTE BURNERS

The city's smoke advisory committee recently warned that worsening smoke and flyash nuisance can be expected throughout the coming tourist season unless the two waste burners are eliminated.

The committee reported that eight of 10 major sources of industrial air pollution in the city now operate consistently within the limits of the anti-smoke bylaw.

STILL BELCHING

There has been little noticeable improvement, however, because the two beehive burners are still belching smoke and flyash.

There was no debate when the committee's report came before city council yesterday.

PREPARED MOTION

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the smoke advisory group, read a prepared motion which was adopted without a dissenting vote.

It read: "I move that a letter be addressed both to Smith Cedar Products Ltd. and to B.C. Forest Products with respect to their Point Ellice Division, explaining council's desire to eliminate serious air pollution and requesting them to indicate the earliest date it might be practical to find an alternative to the use of waste burners."

Mayor R. B. Wilson noted that it was gratifying to see that city anti-smoke forces are progressing to the point where eight of the 10 former industrial sources of air pollution have been brought under control. Then the council went on to other business.

NO EXPLANATION

No official explanation was given following yesterday's council meeting for the apparent switch in tactics in the war on smoke and flyash.

But there are indications that council's action in sending the letters marks the start of an intensive behind-the-scenes campaign to speed the change-over to another method of getting rid of waste at the two offending mills.

LOSS OF JOBS

The city is faced with the prospect of a shutdown of the BCFP Point Ellice operation, formerly Moore-Whittington, if the burner is forced to close now. This, a company spokesman warned, would mean loss of 130 jobs.

Smith Cedar Products, whose waste burner contributes a major portion of the fly ash fallout, have ordered new chipping and hogging equipment. But a land fill operation must be completed before construction of the new plant to handle waste can begin.

Bomb Scare In Store

The top two floors of the Hudson's Bay Store were cleared Thursday afternoon after police received an anonymous phone call that a bomb was hidden on the third floor.

City police and detectives made an intensive search of both floors but were unable to find anything lethal and shopping returned to normal.

Leases Denied Resort

A private resort near Sooke will not get the 286 acres in foreshore leases it is seeking, a provincial lands department spokesman said yesterday.

The applications of Grouse Nest Resorts Ltd. are "extremely excessive and somewhat unrealistic," he said.

However, the lands department is willing to consider the issuance of foreshore leases "covering specific sites for wharves and floats."

Grouse Nest applied for leases on 130 acres at the eastern end of Sooke basin and Roche Cove, 112 acres around Forrest Island and 44 acres at Cabbage Island.

Two Indian bands near Sooke and several hundred people publicly opposed the Sooke basin application, and a number of sport fishermen opposed the foreshore applications near the two islands which are owned by Grouse Nest.

Big Turnout Goal Of Women Electors

The Association of Women Electors will phone as many as possible of the 18,000 eligible voters to make sure they get out and vote on the $3,367,000 capital improvement bylaw which goes to the polls June 18.

Some of the membership at last night's meeting were doubtful about the number of calls that could be made by the AWE's 150 members, pointing out even if every member was able to carry out the job it would still represent 130 phone calls by each member.

The membership decided to enlist friends and members of other organizations to help make the job a success and get the voters out.

It's nice and cool up here, says racoon as he gazes down at frustrated SPCA man, Everett Ferrier, left. Cagey coon took to high branches yesterday at 1831 Fern with irate residents in pursuit after he was found chasing children in the neighborhood. SPCA man, called in to dispose of rascal, found himself facing stalemate, stood looking up helplessly, waiting in hope coon would get curious and descend to lower branches in reach of net.—(Jim Ryan)

Opening set of 11 drums to be officially presented to Canadian Scottish Regiment by its honorary colonel, Frank M. Ross, are from left,

Veterans of Scottish To Join March Past

Many former members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment will share the glory when the regiment is accorded the freedom of the city of Victoria June 6.

The unusual honor comes on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the regiment and the 20th anniversary of D-Day, in which it played so important a part.

Lt.-Col. M. W. E. Allen, commanding officer of the regiment, announced yesterday that all its veterans will be invited to participate in a marchpast on the day the honor is bestowed.

The veterans, in command of Brig. F. N. Cabellu, will march from Belleville Street, near the Cenotaph, along Government to Wharf, where they will disperse.

The veterans will march directly behind the battalion. Lt.-Col. Allen said the marchpast will give the veterans a chance to pay their respects to Frank M. Ross, honorary colonel of the regiment, and B.C.'s former lieutenant-governor.

A further honor will be conveyed by Mr. Ross when he presents the regiment with a new set of drums emblazoned with the regimental badge and battle honors.

The set will include eight side drums, two tenor and one bass drum, and will be presented as a personal tribute to the regiment by Mr. Ross.

"There are many hundreds of Canadian Scottish veterans on Vancouver Island," said Lt.-Col. Allen, "and we are hoping for a big turnout on June 6, so they can share the honor they helped the regiment achieve."

The veterans will form up on Belleville Street at 8:45 p.m. for the march past the reviewing stand, which will be set up on the lawn of the Empress Hotel.

Headress and medals will be worn. It is hoped that several hundred former members of the regiment will be on hand to share in the honor of freedom of the city.

Commission Urges:

Place Beaver-Elk In Regional Hands

By IAN STREET

An independent commission placed a $538,000 "fair price" tag on city-owned Beaver-Elk Lake properties and suggested ownership be transferred to a regional park authority.

The three-member body, composed of former deputy highways minister Evan Jones, G. E. Burrell, and L. E. Pope, was asked seven months ago to arrive at a property valuation.

NO ACTION

It's report finally was brought before city council at yesterday's meeting. No action was taken, however, until negotiations with Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan on establishment of regional parks in Greater Victoria are concluded.

The price arrived at by the commission includes approximately 350 acres of city-owned property surrounding the two lakes.

SMALL PARCEL

A small parcel of land, included in this area, lying north of Brookleigh Road and another piece to the south of Beaver Lake could be subdivided without detracting from the park itself, the commission found.

The proper approach to arriving at a fair cost, the commission decided, involved "the historic cost" to the city with an increment for interest, $237,000.

As far as could be determined, capital expenditures on Elk-Beaver properties between 1963 and 1963 totalled $237,600.

Accrued interest at 5 per cent per annum from 1906 (date of Saanich incorporation), not compounded, amounts to $316,000. From this was deducted revenue to the city from these lands totalling $15,600.

The result: the $538,000 price.

NOT APPRAISAL

"It should especially be noted," the report said, "that (the fair price of $538,000) is not an appraisal of the market value of this property by the commission."

"In (our) opinion the ownership, control and development of this park should vest in a regional park authority rather than either the city of Victoria or the municipality of Saanich."

ALL THE PEOPLE

The commission said it is obvious that the park would serve all the people of the Saanich Peninsula as well as residents of the city and other municipalities. Therefore it falls easily into the classification of a regional park.

The report urged that a regional park authority "should be established at the earliest possible date."

The commission also suggested that when ownership is transferred the property should be dedicated for park use in perpetuity and warned that commercial use "of even a limited area should be most carefully regulated and supervised."

Todd Supports Firemen's Protest

Saanich council should reconsider its decision to hire a city firefighter as chief of its fire department, Coun. Harold Todd said yesterday.

Earlier, Coun. Leslie Passmore said he was opposed to the appointment of Joseph Sutherland, 52, a firefighter first class in the Victoria department, as fire chief effective June 1.

"Large numbers of people in Saanich are concerned about how council picked its new fire chief," Coun. Todd said yesterday.

"Representations are to be made to council (on Monday night) to urge a second look at the previous choice, with a view to choosing one of the several qualified men on the Saanich fire department as chief.

"I heartily endorse this course of action and will fully support it right down the line," Coun. Todd said.

"This whole matter should be re-opened, in light of the new information received since the original choice was made. It is only fair and just to give the firemen a hearing, something they have not had.

"Even their brief on this matter was not considered by council—council only received it a few minutes before the present choice was made," he said.

Coun. Passmore last Saturday released 10 questions relating to the appointment, which he said should be answered by council.

Mrs. Rose Chudy, 1310 Bay Street, announces the forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Barbara Rose, to Mr. Roger Michael Burt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burt of Gabriola Island. The marriage will take place at St. Andrew's Chapel, HMCS Naden, on Saturday, June 6, at 7 p.m. with Rev. W. L. Dalton officiating.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Help! Last week my mom got a letter from my aunt who lives in Texas. She is sending cousin Trudy to visit us for two weeks when school is out in June.

I saw Trudy last year at my grandmother's funeral and she is a moose. If they would let girls on the football team Trudy would make All American. I'll admit she's pleasant and has a cute sense of humor about her size. But Ann, I know I'm going to have plenty of trouble getting her dates.

All the fellas want to see a picture of her and I'm afraid to show them a picture. Please give me some hints on how to get Cousin Trudy fixed up. — TEXAS HEADACHE.

Dear Headache: If there's any old in the family, it wouldn't hurt to drop the word.

In the meantime don't try for the dreamboats who have dozens of girls chasing them. Instead, ask, less-in-demand fellows. They might welcome a fixed-up date.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's son by a former marriage is 17. Bill lives in town with his mother. He is welcome to spend weekends with us but he has never shown much interest in doing so. He drops in occasionally on a Sunday and that's all.

Bill has a key to our house and this is what I'm writing about. Yesterday my neighbor told me that last month when we were away Bill brought a young girl and another couple into our home. This neighbor is not a gossip or a trouble-maker.

Should I tell my husband? If so, how? After all, Ann, I'm not the boy's mother. Please advise at once. — TROUBLED.

Dear Troubled: You aren't the boy's mother, but the home is half yours and you should not knowingly provide a 17-year-old boy with such a setup.

Tell your husband to ask Bill for his house key and to make it clear he can visit only when you are at home.

Dear Ann Landers: Seven months ago a young girl came to work in this office. She is about 21, sweet, refined and half a lovely, warm personality. Several of the fellows asked her out but she said she was engaged and couldn't accept dates. (The girl wore no ring.) Last week she came to work looking pale and ill. She fainted at her desk and I carried her to the infirmary. An hour later the nurse called to ask if I would drive her home.

On the way home the girl sobbed out her story. She is pregnant, she can't work much longer and doesn't know what to do. The fellow she was "engaged" to is a married man who lied to her about his marital status. He offered her money to "get lost" but she refused and wants to go it alone.

I am seriously thinking of asking her to marry me. I know this sounds wacky but I think we could have a good life together even though we've never had a date.

I am 30, have never been married and am willing if she is. Should I ask her? — LONG SHOT.

Dear Long Shot: If you marry the girl out of pity—or if she marries you because she's in a spot—the marriage is doomed from the start. Remember, this girl is virtually a stranger to you—and you to her.

I suggest that you steer her to an agency that will see her through the difficult days ahead. If you continue to see her and the friendship blossoms into love, that's another story.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. W. Neilson are pictured at a reception in Canyon Gardens following their recent wedding at St. David's United Church in West Vancouver. The bride, former Coline Anne Mout, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin F. Mout of Federal Way, Wash., and formerly of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Neilson, West Vancouver. The newlyweds are making their home in Vancouver until August, when they will leave for Cambridge, Mass., where the groom will continue his studies in law at Harvard University.—(Atlas Studios)

Cousin Sings At Wedding

Miss Carol Hayward sang the "Lord's Prayer" during the recent wedding ceremony that united her cousin, Barbara Joan Davies, and Leonard Walter Lightfoot.

St. Aidan's United Church was decorated with bouquets of white lilies, tulips and iris for the occasion. Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davies, 4796 Spring Road, Royal Oak. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lightfoot, 4123 Elwood Street. Mr. Davies gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a princess-line gown featuring lace bodice fashioned with V-neckline and lily point sleeves. The satin skirt was overlaid with organza and slightly en train. Gown was made by the bride. Her short, scalloped net veil misted from a pearl headpiece. Pink roses and lily of the valley formed her crescent bouquet.

Street-length turquoise lace gowns, styled on similar lines to the bride's, were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Larry Davies and bridesmaid Mrs. Gordon Davies.

Their ensembles were made by the groom's mother and were complemented with lace pillbox headpieces. Only jewelry was pearl pendants, gifts of the bride. They carried crescent bouquets of pink carnations.

Dennis Morris was best man and ushers were Robert Carter and Norman Anderson.

C. E. Hayward proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Holyrood House. The bride's table was centred with a cake that was made by her mother and decorated by her grandmother.

The bride's going-away outfit was a navy blue suit made by the groom's mother. She highlighted it with a navy and white hat, white accessories and corsage of tiny pale pink roses.

Rose Manor Resident 95 Yesterday

Mrs. Emma H. Spink, resident of Rose Manor, McClure Street, for 18 years, was 95 years old on Thursday, May 28. She is the oldest member of the Victoria Seventh-day Adventist church.

She was born in London, England, and brought to Toronto, Canada, when she was three months old. Except for a 20 year stay in New York State she has lived in Canada.

Mrs. Spink recalls standing near the city hall on Wall Street, in New York City, and hearing the bells ring in the twentieth century.

When she was married in 1910, her husband, who had travelled over Canada, brought her to Victoria because "it was the only place to live in Canada."

Mrs. Spink has been sightless for 18 years so she spends much of her time listening to classical music on her radio.

Speakers Elect New Executive

Full slate of executive officers was elected at the last regular meeting of the Arbutus Toastmistress Club for the 1963-64 season. The new officers will be installed at the annual meeting and banquet to be held June 4 at the Colonial Inn.

Reports were given by the president, Mrs. S. McCulloch and by Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge, club representative, on the regional convention held recently in Portland, Ore.

Mrs. E. Mansley, topic mistress, was introduced by Mrs. H. J. Wende.

Mrs. T. F. Howe was toastmistress for the evening and was introduced by Mrs. D. Kennedy. Her theme for the program was Stairway to Glory. Four prepared and two extemporaneous speeches were given by Mrs. A. M. Clarkson, Mrs. C. Dowling, Mrs. G. Cooke, Mrs. G. Sheppard, Mrs. A. Galbreath and Mrs. A. V. Drew.

Speech evaluators were Mrs. H. Ker, Miss H. Jewell, Miss B. Ince, and Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge. Mrs. D. E. Pitt was timer; Mrs. W. Howes, grammarian; Mrs. G. Love gave the vote of thanks and Mrs. J. Roberts the closing thought.

Mrs. W. A. Ludlow, general evaluator, awarded the spur to Mrs. C. Dowling for her speech entitled One Step on the Stairway. She also awarded the Oscar to Mrs. McCulloch in appreciation of her term as president.

Island Municipalities

Joint Disaster Aid Formula Asked

PORT ALBERNI—Representatives of Vancouver Island municipalities adopted a resolution which urges a provincial-federal formula for jointly sharing financial responsibility in a disaster.

The resolution, presented by Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni at the 15th annual meeting of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, will be placed before the UBCM annual meeting.

JOINT PLAN

It is aimed at having the government of B.C. take immediate steps to establish with the federal government a plan for joint sharing of financial responsibility to B.C. residents who suffer uninsured loss as a result of tidal waves, floods, earthquakes or similar disasters.

The motion was one of half a dozen matters dealt with during the morning session conducted by Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan.

REGRETS CRITICISM

Mayor Bishop expressed regret at criticism levelled at senior governments in regard to payments to tidal wave victims here and said he felt the situation could be avoided if a formula is worked out in advance.

Adopted was a resolution urging provincial government controls of air pollution.

FERRY FLEA

A Port Alberni submission asking for later daily sailings of B.C. ferry services between Vancouver Island and the mainland was endorsed, but several delegates claimed that the resolution did not go far enough.

Coun. Joseph Casey, of Saanich, said the matter of fare should be dealt with in the resolution. "The tolls have been removed from bridges in the province and although I realize that we can't eliminate tolls on the ferries, I believe we're paying too much to travel between the Island and the mainland."

CLERGY TO TEACH?

There was some opposition to an Esquimalt resolution calling for an amendment to the Public Schools Act to permit clergymen to serve on school boards or as teachers.

In answer to Coun. Hendry of Oak Bay, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt declared there is no reason to imply that if a clergyman is acting as a trustee or as a teacher he would use his position to force his particular religious beliefs. Coun. Hendry felt educational matters should be purely secular.

NOTICE ASKED

The difficulties involving changes of procedure to overcome a tight time schedule were outlined by Mr. Adams

during discussion of a resolution from Esquimalt.

The south Vancouver Island municipality asked an amendment to the Public Schools Act to provide that notice must be given to school boards and municipalities of the amount to be received in each year from government grants in aid of education at least 15 days prior to expiration of the time limit for submission to arbitration on school board budgets.

BEYOND DEADLINE

Preamble to the submission pointed out that while municipalities may submit questions relating to school board budgets to arbitration, the submission must be made not later than Feb. 20, while the extent of government grants may not be known until April 15 and the municipalities therefore have no way of knowing the portion of the cost they will be required to raise.

Powell River will be invited to join the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, delegates decided when they passed a North Cowichan resolution.

HOSPITAL LEVY

Another North Cowichan submission, requesting an amendment to the Municipal Act or any other act so that hospitals will be required to pay for fire protection where there is a special area levy, was also carried.

It was pointed out fire protection costs are not now regarded as a legitimate budget expense by B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

Reeve Lee
Island
President

PORT ALBERNI—Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich was elected president of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities at the 15th annual meeting in Port Alberni, Thursday.

Others named to the executive were Mayor Fred Bishop, Alberni, vice-president; Coun. William Henderson, Cumberland, villages' representative; Mayor Pete Maffeo, Nanaimo; Coun. James Bryant, Esquimalt, and retiring president Reeve Don Morton, North Cowichan directors.

Next convention of the Island group will be held in Central Saanich.

Annual Meeting

Parent-Teacher Council
Re-elects Mrs. Restall

Mrs. R. B. Restall was re-elected president of the Victoria Parent-Teacher Council at the annual meeting last night.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Frank Whittaker, vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Hall, recording secretary; Mrs. L. A. Inman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. V. E. Neilson, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Ashford, membership; Mrs. Lillian Money, program; Mrs. J. M. MacKay, publicity; Mrs. D. A. Bresnahan, hospitality; Tom Smith, safety and health and youth welfare; Mrs. B. A. Banks, fine arts, recreation.

The council endorsed the plan for the capital budget and urged all owners and electors to vote for the $3,367,000 referendum, June 15.

Next meeting of the council will be held in September.

B.C. Labor Strife
Called Appalling

NANAIMO—The outgoing provincial president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce called the present labor strife in British Columbia an "appalling and disgusting state of affairs."

Eric Charman of Victoria asked the Jaycees at the B.C. and Yukon annual convention in Nanaimo to consider launching a study into the situation.

QUICK ACTION

"This is a situation that will have to be resolved with very quickly. It's ridiculous to suggest we can go on the way we are," he said. "There are a shocking number of working days lost through work stoppages and strikes, with many more threatened."

Mr. Charman, a defeated Conservative candidate in the last provincial election, blamed both labor and management for the current troubles in the province. "especially management... they are not taking labor into their confidence enough."

GREATEST IMPEDIMENT

"These labor stoppages are the greatest impediment to the growth of the province; the only thing hampering B.C." Mr. Charman told the Jaycees a study of the labor-management conflict would be "something you could really get your teeth into."

Youths Captured

Follow That Car!
—Right Down Track

CLINTON, N.J. (AP) — A state trooper commandeered a locomotive Wednesday to capture three youths. The boys wrecked a stolen car near a railway line and ran down the tracks with a trooper chasing on foot. Trooper Richard Decker heard of the chase on his police radio. He recalled there was a switch locomotive in a nearby lumber yard. "I jumped on and told the engineer 'Follow those boys,'" Decker said.

"I spotted the kids, and they ran and hid in some bushes. The engineer stopped the train. —I stepped off the engine and informed the boys they were under arrest."

Deplete Resources

Chamber Fearful
Of Trolling Impact

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce shares the concern of Vancouver Island sports fishermen that heavy trolling may deplete fish resources this year. A Victoria delegate back from this week's B.C. chamber convention in Burnaby said a fisheries resolution adopted at the convention deals with the net fishermen who are known to be installing trolling gear on their craft this year in addition to their regular netting gear. He said the resolution urges a joint federal-provincial committee now dealing with the problem to do as much as possible to arrive at an equitable solution to the problem. The trolling gear, being added to net-fishing boats in anticipation of a slack salmon season, is expected to add 1,400 to 1,600 craft to the normal trolling fleet.

Richard Bower, editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist, was elected director of the B.C. chamber.

Sidney

Joan Gardner, 18, was last night named Miss Sidney in the 1964 Miss Sidney contest held at Sanscha Hall.

Voting was close among the 11 contestants, and the five judges had a hard time deciding the winner.

Daphne Grieve and Ann Jeffrey, both 18, were named first and second princesses.

There was a full turnout at the hall, and entertainment was provided by the Bugs male quartet.

Millions Gambled on Conveyor

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

What some consider a multi-million-dollar gamble leads three miles through the bush to the construction site of what is to be the biggest power project in the western world. Kiewit-Dawson, Johnson, the syndicate which is the main contractor on the Peace River power project at Portage Mountain in northern B.C., is believed to be staking its financial success in the project on a single conveyor belt about three miles long.

The belt, the longest single conveyor belt of its kind ever built, will carry the building material for the dam from a huge deposit of silty gravel about four miles from the dam site.

Sets of Rollers

And when its 15,000 sets of rollers begin to turn, powered by four 850-horsepower motors, something more than a month from now, the 60,000-cubic-yard earth fill dam will really begin to rise.

Among those who will have to see it to believe it is G. P. (Pete) Ottesen, the burly American who has handled big dam projects in the western United States, in Turkey, in Pakistan and at Niagara and who is B.C. Hydro's project manager for the Peace project.

High Regards

Mr. Ottesen has a high regard indeed for Kiewit-Dawson, Johnson.

But he's seen conveyor belts before.

"What I want to see," said the heavy-set man in the wine-and-black sports jacket with the blue-and-green B.C. Hydro H on his metal hard hat, "is them get that thing started again when it stops, loaded."

Everything Staked

Millions of dollars are staked on the belt. "They've really stuck their neck out on this one," said another project official about the contractors. "They've staked everything on this belt working."

The 5½-foot-wide belt is made of steel cables set in rubber and its lengths are being applied together on the scene under the supervision of the belt's German manufacturers, using a partly secret process.

Carry Material

It will carry the dam-building materials from a moraine of silty gravel deposited long ago by the same glacier which created the land configuration which will be dammed by the power project.

"Don't get the idea," said Mr. Ottesen, "that we're just going to dump a lot of dirt in and make a dam."

At the end of the three-mile conveyor belt, itself well on the way to being completed, two huge outdoor plants also are in the final stages of construction.

Sift Moraine

These plants, making up the largest gravel processing plants in the world, will sift the moraine material into various grades of gravel and sand.

These will be used in various parts of the dam — impervious silt for its core, heavier material for the "shell" which will supply most of the dam's weight, and drainage material in between. The outside of the dam will be "rip-rapped" with rock on both sides.

And Pete Ottesen and his engineers will be watching the composition of the dam's material like a mother watches her baby's formula—and with a dam site more equipment.

Moisture Content

Moisture content of the materials, for instance, will be controlled within two-tenths of one per cent.

The approximately 1,200 workers now on the project are preparing the dry river bed for the dam now.

"Grouting"—spraying the surface with a dry sand-mixture—and preparation for "grouting"—forcing concrete-like material into fissures in bed rock, as deep as 350 feet down—are well under way.

Peace Diverted

A little fill already is being put in place.

Base of Dam Sealed Against Seepage

Road Dam Material Will Take

of a coffer dam—which in time will form part of the main dam—and of three diversion tunnels which carry the Peace to a point below the eventual dam site.

By this winter, the main dam is expected to have risen higher than the coffer dam, itself more than 100 feet high.

When the $680,000,000 project is completed in 1968 the dam will rise more than 600 feet above the riverbed and form a lake of 680 square miles—five times the size of the Okanagan Lake.

An underground powerhouse based in Dawson Creek, claim time will generate 2,300,000 kilowatts to represent some 600 men who should have jobs on the project.

The men are either unemployed or have poorer jobs than they feel they would have on the dam. The dam is being built to give local men in giving jobs on the project are local men.

The North Peace Employed and Unemployed Laborers and Skilled Workers, based in Fort St. John, and a South Peace group with a similar name given preference.

B.C. May Go to Court Over Offshore Rights

Provincial Mines Minister Donald Brothers said Thursday the B.C. government will consider court action if a meeting with federal officials fails to make progress toward solving an offshore oil rights dispute.

Mr. Brothers and lawyer Bill Hobbs have scheduled a one-day meeting with federal Resources Minister Laing in Ottawa, June 12.

The provincial minister said the meeting will be exploratory but added: "The question has to be reconciled as soon as possible. If necessary, we'll take it to the courts."

Both the provincial and federal governments lay claim to B.C.'s offshore oil rights. Ottawa has given at least one oil company a permit for offshore drilling.

Teaching

French Post Won By Graduate

A French government teaching assistantship at Ecole Normale d'Instituteurs at Rennes has been won by a Victoria University graduate.

Valerie Mary Hall, 22, daughter of Mrs. E. C. Hall of 1837 Crescent, will arrive in France in September.

The graduate, who majored in French and Latin, will teach English for two hours daily and still have time to continue her French and Latin studies in which she is expected to take a master's degree on her return.

She will be in France for one year.

Albert Head Ratepayers Ask Rezoning

Albert Head property owners have asked Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to rezone their rural land classification to residential.

The 66-member Albert Head Ratepayers' Association recently voted in favor of developing the area for "country home" type of living.

The group feels that mink farms, dog kennels and garbage dumps which can locate there under rural zoning will devalue their properties and discourage further residential development there.

Is "slow" gin sloe gin?

No.

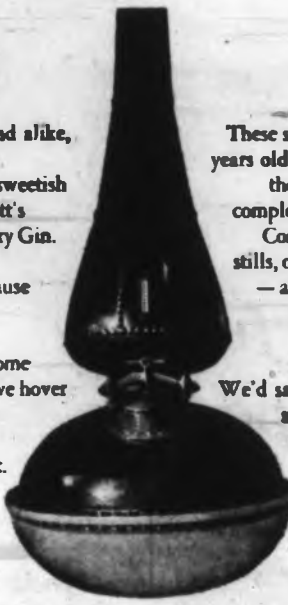

On the contrary. Though they sound alike, they're poles apart.

Sloe Gin—flavoured with sloes—is sweetish and aromatic. Our "slow" gin—Burnett's Sterling—is a juniper gin; a London Dry Gin.

With the emphasis very much on dry.

Why do we call it a "slow" gin? Because it's made slowly—the old-world way. In small, unhurried batches.

The whole process is rather like home cooking. Watching, sniffing, tasting, we hover over Sterling's distillation. What sets the slow pace is our little English Pot Stills. Like the one you see on the right.

These seasoned old-timers are more than 100 years old. We brought them from England in the 1920s—when we imported Burnett's complete distillery.

Compared with today's huge, automatic stills, our old copper Pot Stills are miniatures—and slowpokes. In the time they take to make one gallon of gin, some of their modern counterparts are mass-producing ten.

We'd save money by switching to such monsters. But our Burnett's Sterling would no longer be a "slow" gin. And it wouldn't taste the same.

Catch a Five-Pound Coho And Win a Prince Button

This is the last weekend to qualify for Prince Buttons and hidden weight prizes for the May section of the King Fisherman contest.

No coho have yet been weighed into the contest, so all an angler has to do to win a Coho Prince Button is to catch a coho weighing five pounds or more. But this is pretty hard to do and usually only a few coho are entered this month, usually on the last weekend and usually from Northwest to Deep Bay Waters.

As of today it will take to win Prince Buttons a 16.3-pound spring, a 3.8-pound bass, a 5.3-pound lake trout, a 9.3 steelhead, or a 3.12 river trout other than steelhead.

Oil Fight

Door Not Shut

The end of a long battle was signalled last week in a Canadian Press dispatch from Washington—but one of the chief participants says he is far from finished fighting.

The Washington story said the judiciary committee of Congress had gently closed the door on the protracted attempt of two brothers, a Canadian and a former Canadian, to obtain $15,000,000 redress from the U.S. government because of federal seizure of their father's oil-rich land in California many years ago.

DOOR NOT CLOSED

But Robert Fairbank, the former Canadian now living in Morro Bay, Calif., told the Colonist by telephone Thursday that as far as he was concerned the door was by no means closed.

The chairman of the judiciary committee, he said, had seen no grounds for the committee to concern itself further with the decision of a court of claims that the Fairbank estate had neither a legal nor an equitable claim against the government, "but he's one out of 34 members, and he can't speak for the House of Representatives, either."

MATTER PERSUED

A number of congressmen and senators are actively pursuing the matter, Mr. Fairbank said.

It has taken 40 years to get the case of expropriation before a court, he added—a circumstance he described as of importance not only in the United States but to Canadian owners of U.S. oil lands—and "if one man had been able to discourage me, I wouldn't have got so far."

Island Goal As Market For Gas

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of Westcoast Transmission Company said Thursday the next British Columbia markets for natural gas are likely to be the area between Prince George and the Prince Rupert-Kitimat district and Vancouver Island.

Arthur B. Allene, vice-president for operations and development, said however, developments in liquefied gas techniques might obviate pipelines to such areas.

The gas industry was expected to overcome the difficulties of piping gas to Vancouver Island or would find other means to transport it.

A pipeline to Prince Rupert and Kitimat was "just a matter of time" although it would be premature to speculate as to who would build it.

Mr. Allene was testifying before the National Energy Board, supporting his company's application to build a 220-mile pipeline extension to Fort Nelson from Fort St. John.

He said three factors will accelerate demand for gas—accelerated expansion of industry in B.C.; possible service to areas not now connected to gas; increased potential in the Pacific Northwest United States.

Saanich Man Injured

A 71-year-old man is recovering in St. Joseph's Hospital after falling 20 feet from a ladder yesterday and landing on his head.

Ted Knox, 830 Stafford, Saanich, was painting a home at 918 Stafford about 10 a.m. when the ladder gave way beneath him, dropping him to the driveway.

He is said to be in fairly good condition.

Delighted, Says Mayor

Mall Extension Praised

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday praised Yates Street merchants for their beautification of the Midtown Mall—and at the same time put in a plug for Victoria's capital budget referendum.

He officially opened the two-store extension on View Street making a total of six stores in the shopping complex being developed by the 700 Block Yates Association.

COVERED WALK

The mall, a group of colonial-style shops connected by a covered walkway, lies behind the 700 block, opposite the city parking garage on View.

Mayor Wilson said yesterday he was "delighted" with the extension, and said it showed private enterprise was keeping up with the city's efforts to beautify Victoria.

MORE FUNDS

He told representatives of the area—about 60 persons—the June 18 capital referendum would provide more funds for five years of civic progress, including such items as shopping malls.

The extension provides a sun patio, used as an outdoor cafe, and two stores — The Little Gallery and the House of Beauty.

It also has in all the stores fronting on the mall, and provides access through each of them between View and Yates.

Association member Tom Denny said plans call for the extension to run eventually the full length of the block.

BONN — The Queen and Prince Philip will pay a state visit to West Germany in May, 1965, to repay that made to London by the late West German president, Theodor Heuss, in October, 1958. However, the royal couple must first repay a state visit to London made by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia in 1954. They will visit Addis Ababa next February.

Columbia Approval Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Recommendation for approval of the Columbia River development treaty was made to the Commons Thursday by the external affairs committee.

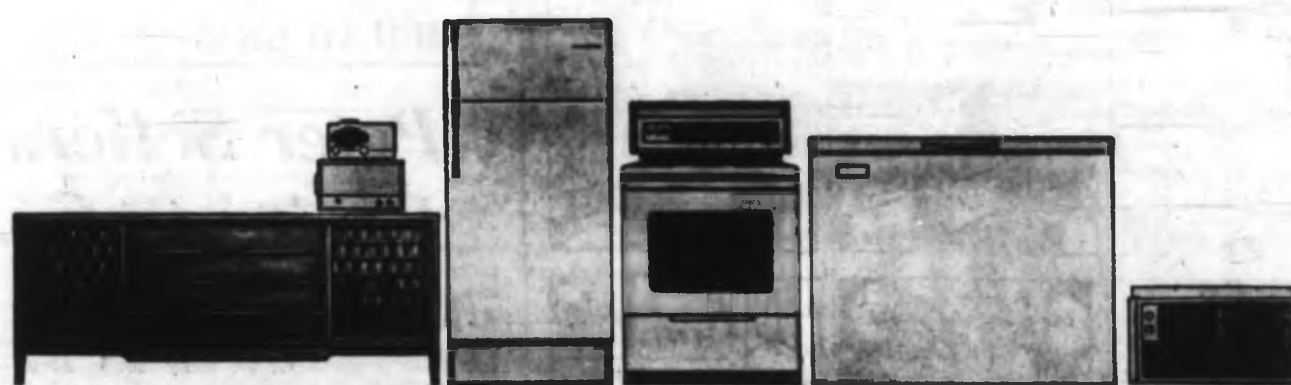

A report contained the committee's endorsement of the power and flood control development plan with the United States.

15 YEARS' SERVICE

Trans-Canada Air Lines carried 3,896,547 passengers in 1963 compared with 25,569 in 1938, its second year of operation.

Our 1,000,000th TV set has just been shipped to an Admiral dealer somewhere in Canada

These fabulous gifts are waiting for the family that buys it!

The millionth TV set off Canadian Admiral's production line will be delivered to a dealer somewhere in Canada within the next few days. The serial number has been deposited with J. Clare Wilcox & Co., Chartered Accountants, who will check it against the serial numbers on incoming warranty cards. When the warranty card from the millionth TV set is returned and the purchaser has answered a skill-testing question, we'll have found our winning family!

They'll receive an Admiral FM-AM stereo console, an Admiral Dual-Temp refrigerator-freezer, an Admiral clock radio, an Admiral chest freezer, an Admiral air conditioner, an Admiral range and an Admiral phonograph (total value more than $2,000)!

Admiral—first to the million mark!

Admiral has always been first with product improvements and new ideas—so it isn't surprising that we've also set the pace in sales! Admiral was the first TV manufacturer to use etched circuitry—the trouble-free kind that was developed for use in space vehicles. We were first with the wide-angle picture tube, first with wireless remote control, first with an automatic overload protector and even first to introduce portable television. No wonder we're first to reach the magic million!

If you're thinking of buying a new TV set sometime this year—do it now and you may be the one who receives a houseful of Admiral gifts! Admiral offers a choice of models with 11", 16", 19" and 23" screens. Any one of them could be the millionth set off the production line! So see your Admiral dealer. And if you buy an Admiral—make sure you get your warranty card, make sure you complete all the details and make sure you send it in. It could be the one we're waiting for!

Such unorthodox sowings must be looked upon as a gamble, for there are bound to be some seasons in which cool, wet weather comes too early in the fall for our crops to mature. But there will be other years of long, warm, sunny fall days in which long-chance late sowings will pay off handsomely.

Screaming Lord Sutch Ready to Repel Army

LONDON (AP) — The army reluctantly decided to tackle Britain's newest radio pirate.

Britain's newest radio pirate Thursday, and Screaming Lord Sutch stood by to repel boarders.

Goat Raisers To Wash Cars

The South Saanich 4-H Goat Club will hold a 50-cent car wash at Westview Service Station, Tillicum and Trans-Canada Highway, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Sutch, 22-year-old pop singer who heads a group called the Savages, started broadcasting Wednesday from an abandoned Second World War fort four miles out in the Thames estuary.

His signals were weak—but strong enough to send the back-passing feverishly around Whitehall.

The fort belongs to the admiralty, said the army. The admiralty built it.

We built it for the army, said the admiralty.

"Perhaps it's a civil matter," said an army spokesman. "Try the ministry of transport."

Transport said definitely not.

Finally the defence ministry stepped in.

"It is an army matter," a spokesman said. "An officer will take a boat out to the fort to tell Mr. Sutch he is trespassing."

The fort is one of four built off the Essex shore to thwart minelaying planes. It stands on stilts 80 feet above the waves.

Sutch—a plumber named Dave Sutch till he turned to "music"—had his first brush with authority Wednesday.

A customs cutter came out of the mist. Customs officers reported this conversation:

Customs: "Do you realize you're on war office property?" His screaming lordship: "Then tell 'em to come out here and take it away. Why do they suddenly want it when we've got it?"

(Sutch retreats from the gallery around the fort and slams the iron doors.)

Customs: "How are you off for fresh water? Send down a rope."

His screaming lordship (returning and lowering a bucket): "Thanks a lot, lads. And don't forget to listen in."

Sutch took over the fort as competition to two other pirate stations, Radio Caroline and Radio Atlanta, both based on ships anchored off the east coast just outside British waters.

Caroline and Atlanta both take ads. By operating outside territorial waters, they beat Britain's ban on commercial and private radio.

Sutch doesn't take advertisements. He's in it to plug his records and publicize unknown beat groups which he wants to manage.

Property owners on far side of peninsula don't want log booms like those on near side.

Sooke Land Owners Battle Log-Boom Mooring Scheme

Five property owners, who have land along a sheltered bay on the picturesque peninsula in Sooke Harbor, are fighting for a public hearing.

They want to stop log booms from being anchored in the bay near their property—because they say it would ruin their beach, spoil the scenery, damage and ruin marine life, and devalue their land.

Their spokesman, hardware salesman John Cook, 131 Victoria Avenue, said yesterday: "We've been refused a public hearing by the lands branch, but we want to continue the fight."

Tug operator D. A. Macfarlane wants to moor the log booms in the bay for the next three years before delivery to Sooke Forest Products.

Objectors are Mr. Cook, Wee Young, 663 Kent, Alan Cronk, 1440 Vining, David Sharp of North Vancouver and Archie Davies, of Carmichael, Calif.

PLAN HOMES

"Some of us intend to build places where in the $10,000 price range, possibly to retire to," said Mr. Cook. "But if we'd known this was going to happen we probably would not have bought the property."

The land concerned is in the Headlands subdivision.

NOTHING UNDER ACT

Already the five objectors have had a lawyer fighting their case, but found nothing under the Land Act which gives them any right to a hearing.

"Maybe if we could get a public hearing, it might help us to protect our property against this kind of thing," said Mr. Cook.

CBC Won't Release Film 'Mr. Pearson'

TORONTO (CP) — Richard Ballentine, president of InterVideo Productions and producer of the film, Mr. Pearson, said Thursday the CBC has refused to provide InterVideo with prints of the film in accordance with their agreement.

"InterVideo has informed the CBC that it intends to show the film to third parties including representatives of the press and other media, even though this latest action by the CBC will make this more difficult," Mr. Ballentine said in a statement.

The producer of the film, which showed candid shots of Prime Minister Pearson in action, said he has a cheap print of the film which was not originally meant for public showing but which is presentable.

The CBC rejected the film on the grounds that it was technically and intellectually faulty.

Mr. Ballentine said he will show the film to vindicate himself.

Potash Transport

Pipeline Firms Oppose Pipeline

REGINA (CP) — Representatives of four Canadian pipeline and oil companies Thursday asked the Saskatchewan Oil and Conservation Board to reject an application to build a $30,000,000 pipeline in the province.

The companies—Producers Pipeline Limited, South Saskatchewan Pipeline Company, Northern Gas Products Company Limited and Shell of Canada Limited—termed the proposed pipeline application "premature."

POTASH PIPELINE

The companies are opposed to an application by Prairie Commodities Pipeline Limited of Regina, to build a potash pipeline from the Saskatchewan area to Chicago.

The application was before the three-man oil and conservation board, which opened hearings Wednesday. The hearings ended Thursday.

Capital of $24,216,000 would be utilized for the Canadian section of the pipeline (355 miles) and $35,444,000 for the United States section (737 miles).

The pipeline would initially transport potash, but the company has future plans for using the pipeline for sulphur, coal, hydrocarbon products, wood pulp and wood chips.

The potash could be carried by: mixing coarsely-ground potash with water—forming a slurry; by forming the potash into paste-slugs; or by inserting it into capsules which would be pumped in crude oil to the destination.

If the capsule-carrying method was perfected by research, it could be the first pipeline of its kind in the world.

Peso Silver Strikes New Zone

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peso Silver Mines Ltd. said Thursday it has hit a new zone parallel to its main drift during underground work on its Rex vein in the Mayor District of the Yukon.

Dr. Aaro Aho, consulting geologist, said the new zone is believed a downward extension of the main surface ore shoot.

Paul O. Beritz, head of Charter Oil of Calgary and chairman of the board of Peso, said the company's treasury position is in good shape for a planned future program.

"Peso has $400,000 cash at hand in the treasury plus 2,000 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur worth over $100,000," he said.

Give Us Bullets —Laos

VIENTIANE — Laos' Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma is seeking aid from the Soviet Union as well as the big three Western powers to meet the military challenge of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Souvanna wants ammunition from the Russians for the guns they supplied his nationalist troops in 1961. He and his army were allies then of the Pathet Lao in a war against the conservative, U.S.-backed government of Prince Boun Oum.

Other developments in the Southeast Asian situation which is causing concern in world capitals:

Washington has summoned high U.S. officials from all parts of the globe to Honolulu next week for an urgent strategy conference. The two-day meeting is being held in Hawaii to facilitate the attendance of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other diplomats in the trouble area. Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson conferred in Washington for about 30 minutes yesterday on the situation in Southeast Asia.

CHARGE REJECTED
In London Britain sharply rejected a Soviet charge that U.S. flights over Laos violated Laos neutrality. The British foreign office has dismissed the Russian charge that the U.S. was openly violating the 1962 Geneva Agreement as "pure propaganda." The Soviet wants a full-scale conference of the 14 nations that settled the last Laotian fighting in 1962. This would enable them to bring up Vietnam and other Southeast Asian trouble spots.

Out of Coma

Singer Judy Garland, 41, shown as she looked when she left Australia last week, emerged from a coma in Hong Kong Thursday. Hospital sources said she no longer needed oxygen. Nature of illness remains mystery. One nurse said Miss Garland had had a heart attack but another nurse described her illness as "poisoning." (AP Photo-fax)

Congolese On March

ELIZABETHVILLE (UPI)—Communist-backed Congolese rebels who captured the key lake and rail terminals of Albertville without firing a shot were reported marching toward the Katangese towns of Bandunduville and Manono Thursday.

Unconfirmed reports said elements of two Congolese national army companies stationed at Albertville had melted and joined the rebel forces.

Nehru Funeral

Grits Hit Over Absence

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition accused the government Thursday of "complete negligence" and "an inexcusable amount of incompetence" because Canada was not represented by a cabinet minister at the funeral of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

External Affairs Minister Martin denied the Commons charges by the opposition leader and said everything possible had been done to get Defence Minister Hellyer to Washington Wednesday in time to get a ride to New Delhi with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Mr. Martin said the only plane which could have got Mr. Hellyer to Washington in time—the transport department's Jetstar—was in New York.

He said the Jetstar had left Ottawa—carrying Trade Minister Sharp to New York for private talks with investment dealers—before news of Mr. Nehru's death had been received.

Outside the Commons, a transport department official said the Jetstar left Ottawa at 9:40 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

India Starts Search

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The search for a successor to the late prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru opens today when his Congress party's working committee meets to indicate its preference. (See also Page 11.)

Lal Bahadur Shastri, 58, Nehru's unofficial deputy, faced a strong challenge from former finance minister Morarji Desai, 68.

Problem's a Lulu

Looe Won't Lose on Ladies' Loos

LOOE, England (AP)—Looe is having trouble with its loos.

In Britain, rest rooms are called loos. The city fathers of Looe, a vacation centre in Cornwall, decided to replace the steel turnstiles in their ladies' loos with coin doors after Labor MP Barbara Castle campaigned in Parliament against the turnstiles.

Mrs. Castle claimed they were undignified and that many women, particularly pregnant ones, had difficulty getting through them.

After dismantling the turnstiles on Looe's loos, the city fathers discovered they could not get enough coin locks due to a national shortage.

The town council voted Wednesday night to transfer the coin-operated locks from the men's loos to the ladies'. The council was told that the traffic at the ladies' greatly exceeded that at the men's.

The council decided to institute an honor system for the men. They will install boxes and rely on the men to deposit their entrance pennies.

One councillor suggested that might be interpreted as a lack of confidence in the honesty of women. Mrs. Anne Leas, vice-chairman of the council, brushed aside the objection and voted for the switch.

Said her husband, Jack Leas:

"She was quite right. Last year Looe received £2,000 from its public conveniences—and most of it came from the ladies' loos. We can't afford to lose that in Looe."

Shelford Plan

Equalize Oil Price Or Be Nationalized

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Social Credit member of the legislature said Thursday he would recommend nationalization of the oil industry if it will not equalize gasoline prices throughout B.C.

Imperial Oil Ltd. spokesmen rejected both equalization and nationalization as suggested by Cyril Shelford in exchanges before the Royal Commission on Gasoline Prices. (See also Page 7.)

ONE STAGE

At one stage commissioner C. W. Morrow said to Mr. Shelford jokingly: "It's war, Mr. Shelford."

Time Takes Toll

CALLANDER, Ont. (CP)—Time has taken its toll in material ways, but the memory of a spectacular quintuplet birth 30 years ago is still fresh in the minds of people in this northern Ontario community.

Thursday was the 30th anniversary of the birth of the famous Dionne quintuplets.

The old farmhouse where the five girls were born is gone. It has been removed from the site and placed at a commercial entertainment centre now filling a role as a tourist attraction. In its place is a modern ranch-style bungalow.

The log nursery still stands on the property surrounded by high grass. The family mansion has

TWO FLAGS SIGNAL TROUBLE

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec MPs, spilling across party lines, strengthened their determination Thursday to fight inclusion of the Union Jack in Prime Minister Pearson's flag resolution as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth and loyalty to the Queen.

Real Caouette, leader of the 13-member Creditiste group in the Commons, said in an interview all his party will vote against the flag resolution as it now stands.

The same position was reported to be gaining ground among Quebec Conservative MPs, and informants said some Liberals are complaining bitterly about the position they find themselves in.

Mr. Pearson's resolution asked the Commons to authorize the proposed new maple leaf flag as "the flag of Canada," but also provides that the Union Jack "may continue to be flown" as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth and allegiance to the Crown.

BET BOTH WAYS

Concern was expressed by supporters of the new flag—three red maple leaves on a white field with blue sides—that unless the resolution is split into two, its passage may be jeopardized. Yet, the Union Jack supporters are not happy about having their flag submitted to a separate vote of the House.

The resolution made its way formally onto the Commons order paper Thursday, following 24 hours notice, after a hesitant slip by Speaker Alan Macnaughton. His eye skipped over the resolution and he apologized to the House for missing it in excitement.

FOLE LONG ENOUGH?

During the question period, Mr. Caouette asked whether anyone in the government had measured the flagpole on the Parliament Building to see if it is long enough to carry two flags. The question was ignored by the government benches.

Paul Martin, acting prime minister in the absence of Mr. Pearson who was in New York for a speaking engagement, fielded most of the questions by suggesting the Commons wait until the flag debate opens. This may be next week. Mr. Pearson is to announce the time Monday.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) asked whether the government would table formal reports on the historic background of the new flag design, and on the purposes for which the Union Jack might continue to be flown. Mr. Martin said the suggestion would be studied.

'Flag-Fever' Called Roman Circus

PRESTON, Ont. (UPI) — Rabbi Abraham Feinberg Thursday called the controversy over the Canadian flag "a frightening symptom of Canadian irrationalism."

Feinberg

Race Clash In Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—Negro demonstrators and white taunters clashed briefly last night during a civil rights march around the historic old slave market. A television cameraman was slashed on the neck.

Hanging Delayed

Hanging of Santa Claus bandit George Marcotte, scheduled to go to gallows early today in Montreal for slaying of policeman during holdup, has been postponed to July 3 on superior court order after Ottawa refused to commute sentence.

Mr. Feinberg told a dinner meeting of the Preston-Hespeier Kiwanis Club that the flag issue is "hugely amusing to Canada's neighbors." He compared the "flag-fever" to the "circus of ancient Rome . . . a political device to mute more serious problems."

"I have lived in Canada almost 21 years and I love this country. For the first time, however, I hesitate to boast about the maturity of the Canadian people," he said.

CYNICISM, INDIGNITY

Mr. Feinberg, rabbi-emeritus of the Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto and vice-chairman of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said "the passions being bred by the Ensign-Maple Leaf debate foster cynicism and indignity."

"If they grow unabated the sovereignty of Canada will fade into a hollow word and the three maple leaves will fly over a sphere of influence divided, like ancient Gaul, into three parts, dominated respectively by United States gold, British sentiment and French-speaking religion."

FORGET FLAGS, SURVIVE

Mr. Feinberg called the flag issue "outworn and retrogressive"; it inflates patriotic humor into chauvinistic hysteria at a time when mankind must forget flags to survive, instead of forging them into weapons for self-glottification.

"Canada's basic alternative is not ensign or leaf—but one nation or none. In the heat of the controversy about the forms of nationhood, Canada may lose the substance," he said. "Whatever the flag finally adopted, it will be a shame unless Canadians choose it with reason, tolerance and a sense of humor which refuses to inflate a piece of cloth into a battle-cry."

Balloting Heavy In IWA Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—A heavy ballot was indicated Thursday as the province's 26,000 coastal woodworkers voted on whether to accept a 23-cent-an-hour increase over two years as recommended by government conciliation officer E. F. Fisher.

Voting at the 6,000-member Vancouver local closes Monday. Most of the other seven provincial locals will not complete voting for another week. Count is June 8.

Quints in 1951: Annette, left, Cecile, Emilie, Marie, Yvonne

Jaycees Invade Nanaimo

Pirate Roars Down Street

NANAIMO—The sight of a fully-armed pirate charging down the main street closely by a scantily-dressed man riding in a bathtub made startled Nanaimo residents aware of the presence of more than 200 Jaycees from all over the province and the Yukon.

The occasion was the Fun Parade Thursday afternoon, after a morning of pre-convention business sessions and the official opening at the Tally-Ho where Mayor Pete Maffeo, MP Colin Cameron, MLA David Stupich and Chamber of Commerce president Dick Bond welcomed the delegates.

BUDGET BUSINESS

The purpose of the convention is to choose the provincial president and executive for the next year and decide what resolutions will be presented at the annual convention. Business sessions are well hidden in the lower floor of the Tally-Ho while exuberant Jaycees and Jayceettes frolic above.

Large paper hands inscribed "Hands Up for Hunt" appear frequently pinned on delegates (in all manner of curious places) and taped on walls as part of the provincial presidential campaign. Tony Hunt of Vancouver, John Ircandina of Trail and Bert Kennedy of New Westminster are candidates for this office.

ON SEDAN CHAIR

Bert Kennedy was carried through town on a sedan chair by grass skirted, bare-chested New Westminster Jaycees in the parade. The local Junior Chamber of Commerce entered the float which won a first prize in the historical section at the Victoria Day Parade.

Bilingual national president Fred West (he speaks English and Gaelic) has been on hand since Wednesday to take part in the business sessions.

Another notable in attendance is Wheldon Gorham of the Whitehorse Junior Chamber of Commerce. His major accomplishment of the year was the growth of a lustrous, full red beard with the ends of the moustache daily waxed. Informed sources say Mr. Gorham will leave the convention with only half a beard.

Festivities and business continue to Saturday night and the president's ball at the Shoreline Hotel ballroom.

Back Distinctive Flag

'For Heaven's Sake'

NANAIMO—A battle for political ideologies occurred yesterday at the official opening of the 28th annual convention of the B.C. and Yukon Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Jaycees attending the convention were asked to "support, for heaven's sake, a distinctive Canadian flag while the opportunity presents itself," by provincial President Eric Charman of Victoria.

EMBLEM VITAL

MP Colin Cameron, a head table guest, told the Jaycees, "I feel it is time we should have a distinctive national emblem. It is essential. When people think of Canada they think of the maple leaf."

Mr. Cameron, a veteran of the First World War, said the persons and organizations who put forth the argument the Red Ensign should be retained because Canadian soldiers in both wars fought under it arouses "a great resentment."

LEAF WAS SYMBOL

"In the First World War," he said, "we operated without benefit of heraldic symbols. We had symbols, not the Red Ensign, not the Union Jack. It was the maple leaf."

His comments brought a standing ovation.

He told Jaycees: "A strange development... the conjunction of corporate wealth and the provincial government challenging the authority of the federal government requires your serious and objective thought."

National president Fred West charged there is "a liquidity of leadership, especially at the higher levels of government" and told delegates they are going in the future.

Jaycee Probe Urged

B.C. Labor Strife Called Appalling

Charman

QUICK ACTION

"This is a situation that will have to be wrestled with very quickly. It's ridiculous to suggest we can go on the way we are," he said. "There are a shocking number of working days lost through work stoppages and strikes, with many more threatened."

Mr. Charman, a defeated Conservative candidate in the last provincial election, blamed both labor and management for the current troubles in the province... "especially management... they are not taking labor into their confidence enough."

GREATEST IMPEDIMENT

"These labor stoppages are the greatest impediment to the growth of the province; the only thing hampering B.C."

Mr. Charman told the Jaycees a study of the labor-management conflict would be "something you could really get your teeth into."

'One of Biggest Votes Ever'

Cowichan Indians Re-Elect Mike Underwood as Chief

DUNCAN—"It was one of the biggest elections the Cowichan Indian Band ever held," said Mike Underwood after his re-election to another two-year term, Wednesday night.

More than 200 of 495 eligible voters out of a total population of 1,228 cast their vote, and Chief Underwood defeated second contender Ross Modeste 131 to 95.

Chief Underwood said some of his people came from as far as Steveston on the mainland where they are working, to exercise their franchise.

Out of 21 councillor-candidates the list of the 11 members elected for two-year terms consists of: Dennis Alphonse, Wallace Antoine, Robbie Daniels, Abel Joe, Abraham G. Joe, William Joe, Gilmer Jimmy, Ruby Peter, Abner Thorne, Louisa Underwood and Rennie Wilson.

For the second time in the history of the Cowichan Indian agency, Band members conducted their own election, and supervising the voting at the Indian recreational centre were William Thorne and Mrs. Rose Williams, Assistant superintendent of the Duncan Indian Affairs office, L. W. Larsen, assisted.

Municipalities Ask Disaster Aid Plan

Campbell

Forced Metro, Merger Opposed

PORT ALBERNI—Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the annual meeting of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities he is opposed to imposition of metro government or amalgamation on any area by the provincial government.

He said: "In any area, it is the people who live in the house who have the right to say what the house will be."

DEMOCRACY FAILS?

Where the provincial government is urged to impose amalgamation or metro it implies that democracy doesn't work, the minister said.

He stressed the importance of local government in defining problems and of the value of associations in bringing the municipalities together to solve their problems.

DEVELOPMENT SEEN

Community development of Vancouver Island north of Kelso Bay in the next few years was predicted by Mr. Campbell.

"After 50 years there is not a single effective local government nor an effective commercial community in the area," he said.

Lack of transportation and domination by a single industry had prevented development, he said.

THERE'S CHANGE

"Tree-taking will be in priority position for some years to come, but there is a change taking place. People going there now want their own homes."

They want to be out of the domination of one or two big companies. They want local government and we will encourage it."

Vancouver Island real estate is the most valuable in Canada, and there is no better investment for young people than in real estate, he said.

FOREIGN OWNERS

"There are others who don't live here that realize this and are putting up tremendous amounts of money to own Vancouver Island property. We, ourselves, are really responsible for this foreign ownership."

"Peculiar as it may seem, Canadians would rather invest in bonds than real estate."

NOTICE ASKED

The difficulties involving changes of procedure to overcome a tight time schedule were outlined by Mr. Adams during discussion of a resolution from Esquimalt.

The south Vancouver Island municipality asked an amendment to the Public Schools Act to provide that notice must be given to school boards and municipalities of the amount to be received in each year from government grants in aid of education at least 15 days prior to expiration of the time limit for submission to arbitration on school board budgets.

BEYOND DEADLINE

Preamble to the submission pointed out that while municipalities may submit questions relating to school board budgets to arbitration, the submission must be made not later than Feb. 20, while the extent of government grants may not be known until April 15 and the municipalities therefore have no way of knowing the portion of the cost they will be required to raise.

PORT ALBERNI—Representatives of Vancouver Island municipalities adopted a resolution which urges a provincial-federal formula for jointly sharing financial responsibility in a disaster.

The resolution, presented by Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni at the 15th annual meeting of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, will be placed before the UBCM annual meeting.

JOINT PLAN

It is aimed at having the government of B.C. take immediate steps to establish with the federal government a plan for joint sharing of financial responsibility to B.C. residents who suffer uninsured loss as a result of tidal waves, floods, earthquakes or similar disasters.

The motion was one of half a dozen matters dealt with during the morning session conducted by Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan.

REGRETS CRITICISM

Mayor Bishop expressed regret at criticism levelled at senior governments in regard to payments to tidal wave victims here and said he felt the situation could be avoided if a formula was worked out in advance.

Adopted was a resolution urging provincial government controls of air pollution.

FERRY FLEA

A Port Alberni submission asking for later daily sailings of B.C. ferry services between Vancouver Island and the mainland was endorsed, but several delegates claimed that the resolution did not go far enough.

Coun. Joseph Casey, of Saanich, said the matter of fare should be dealt with in the resolution. The tolls have been removed from bridges in the province and although I realize that we can't eliminate tolls on the ferries, I believe we're paying too much to travel between the island and the mainland."

CLERGY TO TEACH?

There was some opposition to an Esquimalt resolution calling for an amendment to the Public Schools Act to permit clergymen to serve on school boards or as teachers.

In answer to Coun. Hendry of Oak Bay, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt declared there is no reason to imply that if a clergyman is acting as a trustee or as a teacher he would use his position to force his particular religious beliefs. Coun. Hendry felt educational matters should be purely secular.

He said if all municipalities would take the stand which had been taken in his city, results would be achieved.

He said there are three different groups on welfare: Those who have been on welfare for years and have not tried to get off; the physically and mentally unfit, and the people who have run into trouble and are temporarily unable to find work.

"Welfare is for the second group," Mayor Moore said.

OTTAWA BUCKS PLAN

He said that when Courtenay had tried the work-for-welfare experiment, the provincial government continued to pay 40 per cent but federal payment was withheld.

He blamed federal Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh for failing to see the practicability of putting able-bodied men to work for an appropriate number of hours at the going union rate for the welfare money.

OPPOSES MOTION

Ald. George Bryson of Nanaimo was the only one to speak against the motion. He declared that four days' work a month was not sufficient to rehabilitate a man, and that the 300 welfare payment was insufficient to outfit him for the work.

He advocated extension of winter works programs as being more effective.

DUNCAN — A 12-month jail term was imposed Thursday in police court on Nelson Canute of Duncan, who previously had pleaded guilty to attempted car theft.

The offence occurred May 19. He told court he was too drunk to realize what he was doing after leaving a local beer parlor.

It was noted he had a lengthy record. His younger brother, Thomas Canute, also of Duncan, who had pleaded guilty to the same offence a few days ago, was sentenced to nine months definite and nine months undertermined at Oakalla young offenders' unit. He also had previous convictions.

Work-Welfare Policy Endorsed

PORT ALBERNI—The Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities has endorsed in principle the policy of "work for welfare."

Mayor Bill Moore of Courtenay, whose council presented the resolutions, said, "It works," when he spoke to the motion.

He said if all municipalities would take the stand which had been taken in his city, results would be achieved.

He said there are three different groups on welfare: Those who have been on welfare for years and have not tried to get off; the physically and mentally unfit, and the people who have run into trouble and are temporarily unable to find work.

"Welfare is for the second group," Mayor Moore said.

OTTAWA BUCKS PLAN

He said that when Courtenay had tried the work-for-welfare experiment, the provincial government continued to pay 40 per cent but federal payment was withheld.

He blamed federal Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh for failing to see the practicability of putting able-bodied men to work for an appropriate number of hours at the going union rate for the welfare money.

OPPOSES MOTION

Ald. George Bryson of Nanaimo was the only one to speak against the motion. He declared that four days' work a month was not sufficient to rehabilitate a man, and that the 300 welfare payment was insufficient to outfit him for the work.

He advocated extension of winter works programs as being more effective.

DUNCAN — A 12-month jail term was imposed Thursday in police court on Nelson Canute of Duncan, who previously had pleaded guilty to attempted car theft.

The offence occurred May 19. He told court he was too drunk to realize what he was doing after leaving a local beer parlor.

It was noted he had a lengthy record. His younger brother, Thomas Canute, also of Duncan, who had pleaded guilty to the same offence a few days ago, was sentenced to nine months definite and nine months undertermined at Oakalla young offenders' unit. He also had previous convictions.

The 1,000-mile-an-hour interceptors from Comox RCAF base were after ES2 bombers from the U.S. Strategic Air Command, in a simulated exercise aimed at testing joint Canadian-U.S. air defences in this area.

IWA President
Touring Mills
To Explain Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, has appeared personally in Vancouver lumber mills in an open split over a union policy committee bulletin which recommends a wage settlement.

Syd Thompson, head of the IWA's 7,000-member Vancouver local, refused to distribute it to union members.

Moore countered by appearing at six meetings in large plants here to explain the recommendation calling for acceptance of the 28-cent-an-hour increase proposed by government conciliator E. P. Fisher.

BID REJECTED

The executives of five locals with 17,400 members, have voted to reject the Fisher recommendation. They are from the Haney, Vancouver, Duncan, Port Alberni and Courtenay locals.

Only the New Westminster local and Loggers' Local 1-71, totalling about 8,600 members, have agreed to accept the wage proposal.

Moore said earlier that members of the Vancouver, Port Alberni and Courtenay locals failed to receive the bulletin.

A secret ballot will be taken among the 26,000 coastal members to determine if the wage offer is acceptable. It will be completed June 6.

Meanwhile, Moore said he intends to use all available means to inform the IWA members of the bulletin and has scheduled a series of speaking engagements with workers in Vancouver plants during lunch hours.

NOT INTERESTED

Answering charges that he was using the contract battle as a lever in an IWA leadership battle expected this year, Thompson said: "I'm not interested in the leadership this year. I'm interested in getting more money for members this year."

Moore replied that "there's no doubt that various people on local union executive boards are making this a political fight."

Deplete Resources

Chamber Fearful
Of Trolling Impact

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce shares the concern of Vancouver Island sports fishermen that heavy trolling may deplete fish resources this year.

A Victoria delegate back from this week's B.C. chamber convention in Burnaby said a fisheries resolution adopted at the convention deals with the fishermen who are known to be using trolling gear on their craft this year in addition to their regular netting gear.

He said the resolution urges a joint federal-provincial committee now dealing with the problem to do as much as possible to arrive at an equitable solution to the problem.

The trolling gear, being added to net-fishing boats in anticipation of a slack salmon season, is expected to add 1,000 to 1,500 craft to the normal trolling fleet.

Richard Bower, editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist, was elected director of the B.C. chamber.

Farmers Seeking Specific Training

COBBLE HILL — Farmers in the interior of British Columbia seem to be more interested in a special type of agriculture training than farmers in the Cowichan Valley.

Ending an extensive survey on the demand of such service in the province, Ron Pilling, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, told 26 farmers here Wednesday night the response to the survey was 100 per cent in some interior centres.

Mr. Pilling said population in general the farm population would like to see more provisions for a more specific training of junior farmers and adults engaged in agriculture, another group feels such training is unnecessary.

He said vocational schools in the province will have agricultural facilities if it is warranted and at Prince George, for instance, 150 acres have been set aside by interested parties for that purpose.

DUNCAN — "I was scared of being arrested," James Squire of Crofton, charged with giving a false name when checked by police, told Magistrate D. K. McAdam in police court Thursday.

He was stopped May 16, at Duncan. Magistrate McAdam told Squire he was liable to a much more severe punishment than the $75 he was fined.

Squire told court he was scared when checked by police because he was driving while suspended.

However, the only other charge laid against him was being a minor in possession of liquor, for which he was fined $25. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

MOTORIST FINED

PORT ALBERNI — Bill Drummond of Ladysmith won a trip to the World's Fair in New York and a cruise to Bermuda when he topped the board at Rainbow Lanes in a roll-off of the Players Bowling Festival.

Runner-up when the 48 north Vancouver Island finalists met here last weekend was Earle Foxcroft of Port Alberni.

Drummond scored 565 in the three games, 24 over his average, while Foxcroft, with 606 points, was only 12 above his average.

ALBERNI — Klitsa Garden Club made plans for its annual flower show when 23 members met at the home of Mrs. Ann Thomson, McCoy Lake.

The show is slated for June 23, 2 to 4:30 p.m., in St. Alban's Hall, Fifth Avenue and Angus Street. There will be 21 classes open for competition.

LADYSMITH — Farmer wood purchases have been extended to the Ladysmith district and soon may be made on Denman and Hornby islands as well, say officials of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. The purchases, which mean extra income for two dozen farmers, already are being made in the Parkville, Courtenay and Campbell River areas.

PORT ALBERNI — About 300 people visited Alberni Indian Residential School last Saturday and saw displays of gymnastics and traditional Indian dances, art and handicraft exhibitions. Carved totem poles, decorated paddles and paintings were in the display in the lounge of the Edward Peake Hall, while in the main building senior girls showed garments made in home economics classes.

NANAIMO (CP) — Extra staff has been sent to the National Employment Office at Alberni to help handle the claim load that has resulted from a strike of 60 office workers.

DUNCAN — More than 60 senior secondary school students indicated they will attend tonight's annual National Employment Service counselling, at the NES office here.

The students, to seek professional advice from 15 counsellors, will come from the Cowichan Valley, Chemainus and private schools.

Spring Exhibition
Of Art Draws 250

PORT ALBERNI — Approximately 250 people visited Alberni Valley's spring exhibition of paintings and pottery.

Work on display included paintings by 17 local artists, along with a number loaned by Saanich and Powell River people. Thirteen members of the A.V. Pottery group had their handcrafts in the show.

Sculptures by Hazel Komerski and Phyllis Harding, along with examples of wheelwork and hand-built items, filled one room of the Arts and Crafts building. Pots made by Elizabeth Brochman in Ghana, and some specimens of the work of Jerry Wytboer using his homemade glaze, were featured.

Party Costs
Driver $115

NANAIMO — Magistrate Eric Winch fined a Wellington man $40 for speeding, $75 for careless driving, then said "all I hope is that you had a good time."

D. A. McMaster was charged with careless driving without due care and attention after his car plowed into a traffic island near Terminal Park shopping centre. McMaster said he had taken some friends home from a party and fell asleep driving on the return trip.

RCMP at Williams Lake charged McMaster with speeding earlier in the month when he was clocked at 85 miles an hour in a 60 zone on the Cariboo Highway. His driver's licence was suspended for one month.

Council Donates $500
To Friendship Centre

PORT ALBERNI — City council has contributed $500 toward the establishment of an Indian Friendship Centre here while endorsing the principle in the project.

Other action taken by the council on recommendation of the committee of the whole included a grant of $675 to the local Chamber of Commerce for publicity purposes. An equal amount was granted to Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. S. Leslie Hughes was formally appointed deputy civil defence co-ordinator, effective April 1 of this year, and plans were made to discuss with Alberni council details of joint operation of civil defence.

Plans were made for a preliminary meeting to discuss possibility of reorganization of a traffic and safety committee in this district.

Give Us Bullets —Laos

From AP, UPI

VIETNAME — Laos' Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma is seeking aid from the Soviet Union as well as the big three Western powers to meet the military challenge of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Souvanna wants ammunition from the Russians for the guns they supplied his neutralist troops in 1961. He and his army were allies then of the Pathet Lao in a war against the conservative, U.S.-backed government of Prince Boun Oum.

DEVELOPMENTS

Other developments in the Southeast Asian situation which is causing concern in world capitals:

Washington has summoned high U.S. officials from all parts of the globe to Honolulu next week for an urgent strategy conference. The two-day meeting is being held in Hawaii to facilitate the attendance of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other diplomats in the trouble area. Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson conferred in Washington for about 30 minutes yesterday on the situation in Southeast Asia.

CHARGE REJECTED

In London Britain sharply rejected a Soviet charge that U.S. flights over Laos violated Laos neutrality. The British foreign office has dismissed the Russian charge that the U.S. was openly violating the 1954 Geneva Agreement as "pure propaganda."

The Soviet wants a full-scale conference of the 14 nations that settled the last Laotian fighting in 1962. This would enable them to bring up Vietnam and other Southeast Asian trouble spots.

Congolese On March

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI) — Communist-backed Congolese rebels who captured the key lake and rail terminus of Albertville without firing a shot were reported marching toward the Katanga towns of Bandunduville and Manono Thursday.

Unconfirmed reports said elements of two Congolese national army companies stationed at Albertville on Lake Tanganyika had mutinied and joined the rebel forces.

Nehru Funeral

Grits Hit Over Absence

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition accused the government Thursday of "complete negligence" and "an inexcusable amount of incompetence" because Canada was not represented by a cabinet minister at the funeral of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

External Affairs Minister Martin denied the Commons charges by the opposition leader and said everything possible had been done to get Defence Minister Hellyer to Washington Wednesday in time to get a ride to New Delhi with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Mr. Martin said the only plane which could have got Mr. Hellyer to Washington in time—the transport department's Jetstar—was in New York.

He said the Jetstar had left Ottawa—it carried Trade Minister Sharp to New York for private talks with investment dealers—before news of Mr. Nehru's death had been received.

Outside the Commons, a transport department official said the Jetstar left Ottawa at 9:40 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

India Starts Search

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The search for a successor to the late prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru opens today when his Congress party's working committee meets to indicate its preference. (See also Page 11.)

Lal Bahadur Shastri, 59, Nehru's unofficial deputy, faced a strong challenge from former finance minister Morarji Desai, 68.

Shelford Plan

Equalize Oil Price Or Be Nationalized

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Social Credit member of the legislature said Thursday he would recommend nationalization of the oil industry if it will not equalize gasoline prices throughout B.C.

Imperial Oil Ltd. spokesmen rejected both equalization and nationalization as suggested by Cyril Shelford in exchanges before the royal commission on gasoline prices. (See also Page 7.)

ONE STAGE

At one stage commissioner C. W. Morrow said to Mr. Shelford jokingly: "It's war, Mr. Shelford."

At another he warned Mr. Shelford (MLA, Omineca) whose efforts in and out of the legislature resulted in the royal commission, against making speeches.

SAME TIME

At the same time it was also disclosed that Mr. Shelford's brother, Arthur, has received a low bid from Imperial to supply unbranded gasoline. Arthur was dropping his Shell Oil dealership at Burns Lake and planning to operate the location as a discount outlet.

Imperial, in its second day of presentations to the commission, was in its second day of presentations to the commission.

Fire Loss Totalled In Millions

NEW YORK (AP) — Water front fires in New Jersey and Virginia Thursday destroyed several million dollars worth of property. Another blaze in a Massachusetts nursing home forced rapid evacuation of 73 patients.

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec MPs, spilling across party lines, strengthened their determination Thursday to fight inclusion of the Union Jack in Prime Minister Pearson's flag resolution as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth and loyalty to the Queen.

Real Casquette, leader of the 13-member Creditiste group in the Commons, said in an interview all his party will vote against the flag resolution as it now stands.

The same position was reported to be gaining ground among Quebec Conservative MPs, and informants said some Liberals are complaining bitterly about the position they find themselves in.

Mr. Pearson's resolution asked the Commons to authorize the proposed new maple leaf flag as "the flag of Canada," but also provides that the Union Jack "may continue to be flown" as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth and allegiance to the Crown.

KEY NOTE WAYS

Concern was expressed by supporters of the new flag—three red maple leaves on a white field with blue sides—that unless the resolution is split into two, its passage may be jeopardized. Yet, the Union Jack supporters are not happy about having their flag submitted to a separate vote of the House.

The resolution made its way formally onto the Commons order paper Thursday, following 24 hours notice, after a hesitant slip by Speaker Alan Macnaughton. His eye skipped over the resolution and he apologized to the House for missing it in excitement.

POLE LONG ENOUGH?

During the question period, Mr. Casquette asked whether anyone in the government had measured the flagpole on the Parliament Building to see if it is long enough to carry two flags. The question was ignored by the government benches.

Paul Martin, acting prime minister in the absence of Mr. Pearson who was in New York for a speaking engagement, fielded most of the questions by suggesting the Commons wait until the flag debate opens. This may be next week, Mr. Pearson is to announce the time Monday.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) asked whether the government would table formal reports on the historic background of the new flag design, and on the purposes for which the Union Jack might continue to be flown. Mr. Martin said the suggestion would be studied.

But Memories Fresh

Quints Born 30 Years Ago

CALLANDER, Ont. (CP) — Time has taken its toll in material ways, but the memory of a spectacular quintuplet birth 30 years ago is still fresh in the minds of people in this northern Ontario community.

Thursday was the 30th anniversary of the birth of the famous Dionne quint.

The old farmhouse where the five girls were born is gone. It has been removed from the site and placed at a commercial entertainment centre now filling a role as a tourist attraction. In its place is a modern ranch-style bungalow.

The log nursery still stands on the property surrounded by high grass.

The family mansion has been converted into a nursing home. A lofty building nearby—partly renovated for use as a restaurant—still wears its faded lettering the word "Information." In the days of the quint's youth it served as a souvenir shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne,

the quint's parents, live a short distance from the huge Dionne homestead.

Thursday, on their 30th birthday, three of the four surviving Dionne quint celebrated the occasion quietly at the home of Germain Allard, Annette's husband, in St. Bruno, Que. The Allards have three sons.

Marie, who is Mrs. Florian Houle, attended from Mont-treal with her two daughters and Cecile, Mrs. Philippe Langlois, of Quebec City, also attended, without her three children.

Yvonne, now at a convent in Moncton, N.B., was not able to attend.

The fifth quint, Emilie, died Aug. 6, 1954.

The reunion was simple. A

FORGET FLAG, SURVIVE
Mr. Feinberg called the flag issue "outworn and retrogressive; it inflates patriotic honor into chauvinistic hysteria at a time when mankind must forget flags to survive, instead of forging them into weapons for self-glorification."

"Canada's basic alternative is not ensign or leaf—but one nation or none. In the heat of the controversy about the form of the nationhood, Canada may lose the substance," he said. "Whatever the flag finally adopted, it will be a shame unless Canadians choose it with reason, tolerance and a sense of humor which refuses to inflate a piece of cloth into a battle-cry."

Balloting Heavy In IWA Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — A heavy ballot was indicated Thursday as the province's 26,000 coastal woodworkers voted on whether to accept a 28-cent-an-hour increase over two years as recommended by government conciliation officer E. P. Fisher.

Voting at the 6,000-member Vancouver local closes Monday. Most of the other seven provincial locals will not complete voting for another week. Count is June 8.
